Military Money Bill Faces House Battle On Pullout

WASHINGTON (AP) — The $21-billion military procurement bill, its major weapons programs intact after an 82-4 romp through the Senate, headed today for another House battle over a call for U.S. withdrawal from Indochina in six months.

Last June, the House rejected a similar amendment by a vote of 219 to 176 but its sponsor, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, has expressed hope of winning acceptance this time.

A showdown vote is likely sometime next week, House sources said.

The only other provision in the Senate's version of the big arms bill that could cause difficulties is the amendment by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., ad-

Daniel Ealey Conviction Is Upheld

Appeals judges today affirmed the conviction of confessed slayer Daniel Ealey and overruled his appeal.

The Fourth District Court of Appeals judicial council ruled that Ealey, now 54, had been adequately represented by counsel of his own choice in the courtroom hearing before a three judge panel.

Ealey admitted to shooting two men, Gail Lewis and Emanuel Baldwin, in the hall of the upper floor of the Woods Building in Williamsport two days before Christmas, 1964 and was sentenced by the judges to two consecutive life terms in the penitentiary.

In July, 1970, Ealey started appeal proceedings through Attorney Richard Gerhardt, claiming he did not receive fair representation and alleging his attorney, Emory Smith from Portsmouth, was incompetent, primarily because of his advanced age. Ealey claimed Emory did not provide him a proper defense.

IN his opinion, Judge Earl Stephenson concluded that any other outcome of the matter was purely speculative, that Ealey had full knowledge of the consequences when he entered his guilty plea and his attorney was not negligent in his defense.

The judge panel at the hearing in 1965, including Judge William Ammer, Judge Merlin Parent of Fairfield County and Judge C. W. Smith of Vinton County, granted the confessed slayer mercy.

Concurring with Stephenson's opinion were Judges Howard Abele and Gordon Gray.

Bill Proposed To Wipe Out Loyalty Oath

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the House Internal Security Committee has proposed a "constitutional oath support" bill aimed at wiping the controversial 1950 Subversive Activities Control Act off the federal lawbooks.

Committee Chairman Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., introducing his legislation Wednesday, told the House: "It is ridiculous to retain a law on the statute books which is unenforced or unenforceable."

Ichord contended that the Subversive Activities Control Board "should either be given something to do or it should be abolished." His bill would set up "new machinery to screen applicants for federal employment on loyalty and security grounds," he said.

After the Supreme Court overruled its authority to hunt, register and publicize Communist organizations, the board had virtually nothing to do for months.

Nixon To Bare Economic Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon unveils to the nation tonight his post-freeze economic package, a complex program of wage-price restraints likely to be based on productivity.

When Nixon goes before nationwide television and radio at 7:30 p.m. EDT, he will strip away the mystery that has surrounded the program, popularly known as Phase 2, since he imposed the 90-day wage-price freeze Aug. 15.

This much is known: The White House has virtually ruled out any controls on profits, and has left the door open only slightly to ceilings on interest rates. Some sort of control on medical costs is expected.

The biggest question is how much wages and prices will be allowed to rise after the freeze expires Nov. 13. The White House has been super secret on this point, although economists are guessing wages would be allowed to go up 5 per cent.

Productivity—Worker output per man-hour, a gauge of the efficiency of the U.S. economy—is likely to be the key to the Phase 2 plan. Productivity has been rising at about 3 per cent a year.

But there is also a question of whether the wage guidelines should include a cost-of-living allowance to take into account price increases.

How the program will be enforced is just as big a mystery as the wage-price restraints.

Government sources said the Cost of Living Council, set up by Nixon to administer the freeze, likely will continue as the chief policymaking agency in Phase 2.

But beyond that, the alternatives range widely. Organized labor has called for a wage-price review board including members of labor, management and the public, with a voluntary Phase 2 program.

Sources said the Phase 2 program will amount to a blending of government compulsion to hold down wage-and-price increases, and voluntary cooperation, backed up by government pressure and exhortation.

"The freeze is a mixture," one source said, noting that while wages and prices are frozen, the government moved quickly when some companies raised dividends, which are not covered by the freeze.

That same sort of mixture of controls and pressure will be included in Phase 2, he indicated.

Phase 2 will stop short of all-out permanent wage-and-price controls, a system of combatting inflation that Nixon has

West Coast Dock Workers Ordered Back

No Settlement Hopes Seen Yet In Coal Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Responding to Nixon administration pleas, federal judges have temporarily halted longshoremen's strikes against West Coast docks and the Port of Chicago.

The judges Wednesday night directed strikers to return to work for 10 days, pending hearings on whether the moratorium should be extended the full 80 days allowed by the Taft-Hartley Law.

The West Coast walkout, at 99 days the longest longshoremen's strike experienced in the region, has idled 15,000 dockworkers and cost affected states more than $1.7 billion.

The Chicago walkout of grain-elevator operators 35 days ago has kept 500 grain-handling members of the longshoremen's union off the job.

The suits were initiated on orders of President Nixon who cited the report of a special four-man council he had created under the Taft-Hartley Law to investigate the shipping situation.

East and Gulf Coast dockworkers, also striking, were reported trickling back to work at some ports, in expectation of Taft-Hartley action but Nixon did not use the law in their dispute. Instead, he sent a team of federal officials to New York.

NOTE from Fire Chief Bernard Wolfe during National Fire Prevention Week: Clothing can burn — and cause death or disfigurement. With children especially, watch out for frilly, loose-fitting garments and sheer, fuzzy fabrics. All too often they catch fire easily and burn in a flash. Train everyone in the family to be doubly careful when near open flames, heaters, stoves and fireplaces.

ROUND TOWN got an anonymous letter today. Although it is not our policy to print unsigned letters, we couldn't resist this one.

"I disagree with commissioner whatshisname about what we should call the governor. This world needs a good laugh sometimes and that's just what it has been lately with these articles. Also when you say whatshisname instead of Gilligan it doesn't remind me that I was one of them that put an X in front of his name.

Man Receives 6900 Volt Shock, Lives

A Zanesville man received quite a shock this morning — 6900 volts of electricity.

Junior Collins, 43, was working on the Red Bridge sub station of the South Central Power Company about 7:55 a.m. Thursday when he accidentally touched a live line.

The shock knocked him from the tower he was working from and he fell 15 feet, striking his head on the ground.

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Robert Hoover, investigating officer, said Collins was treated at Berger Hospital for burns of both hands and right arm, and a laceration to the back of his head.

Collins is employed by Gardner Electric and had been an electrician for 23 years.

Free Prom Plane Ride Promoted

MCKEESPORT, Pa. (AP) — Two seniors at Serra Catholic High School have really got their heads in the clouds over their senior prom.

They're trying to borrow a 190-seat plane and crew to fly seniors, their dates, several faculty members and friends to Chicago for an after-prom party and buffet.

The cost of a charter plane to Chicago from Pittsburgh is $9,000 over our budget," the pair told eight airlines company presidents in a letter asking for the use of a plane and crew.

The plan was masterminded by Wilson Movie Jr. and Doug Usko, who sent the letters to the airline executives in hopes of producing the greatest Serra prom ever.

They even offered the executives something in return for the $9,000 plane round trip: "We would even put a picture of you and your airplane on a separate page in our yearbook — and in our hearts," they said.

The request went to presidents of Mohawk, TWA, Eastern United, Pan Am, Allegheny, American and Northwest.

So far, there's only been one reply—negative.

A letter from TWA informed the youths at that federal regulations prohibited free air rides.

The youths are still hoping but they acknowledge they're asking a lot. In closing their letter to the executives, they wrote:

"We realize what we're asking for and even if you can't help us, you and your wife still hold an invitation to our prom, since you were sincere enough to read this far."

Soviet Talk Of Security Meet Propaganda Trick?

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer

BRUSSELS (AP) — U.S. diplomats believe the Soviet push for a European security conference may be a propaganda move aimed at strengthening Moscow's position in Eastern Europe.

The Soviets have agreed to talk troop cuts with America and its allies and proposed a security conference as the forum. But the diplomats believe the Kremlin may have an ulterior motive: gaining international recognition for the Communist government of East Germany and maintaining the division between East and West.

Their argument runs like this:

The Soviets have been pushing for a European security conference since 1967. They have suggested two subjects for discussion—renunciation of the use of force and better economic cooperation.

U.S. diplomats see little importance in either topic as a way of keeping the peace in Europe.

All members of the United Nations have renounced the use of force by signing its charter. West Germany, which is not a member, has done the same in its pending treaty with the Soviet Union.

Economic cooperation between East and West is going ahead about as fast as it can. It is limited primarily by the lack of anything much in the Soviet Union or Eastern Europe that the West wants to buy.

But just convening a conference would strengthen the Soviet position in Eastern Europe, since all the Communist governments there would have to be invited.

An invitation to East Germany, a government not officially recognized by any of the Western allies, would represent a kind of recognition, much coveted by the East German regime.

This is what the United States wants to avoid. Recognition would deprive West German Chancellor Willy Brandt of an important negotiating tool in his effort to improve chances for the East Germans to cross the Berlin Wall—at least for occasional visits. Western allies have pledged not to join a security conference until there is agreement on Berlin.

Petitions Hit Park Closings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Petitions bearing 19,000 signatures and calling for the reopening of state parks were presented to the office of Gov. John J. Gilligan today by a Fairfield County resident.

Kline Buckalew of Lancaster brought the petitions to Gilligan's office. Gilligan was in Washington, D. C., but an aide, Robert Daley, accepted them.

Gilligan closed 46 state parks Sept. 1 as an austerity move.

Charge Youth In Slayings

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Bobby Davis, 20, of Cleveland was to appear in Cleveland Municipal Court today on two counts of first-degree murder in the hammer slayings of two Cleveland sisters.

The charges were filed against Davis shortly after the second sister, Mrs. Irene Fleming, 56, died in Forest City Hospital Wednesday.

She had been found beaten Monday and her sister, Mrs. Ruth Hal, 48, was found dead in the latter's Lakeview Road apartment. Police said both women had been beaten around the head, and that parts of their bodies had been painted white.

Davis was arrested Monday night near Akron University by school security guards, who said he was acting in a suspicious manner. Akron police turned him over to Cleveland officials after it was found that Davis was driving a car registered to Mrs. Hal.

Davis told police he went to the apartment to get money to buy drugs, and when Mrs. Hal refused to give any money to him, he began to beat her. Davis said Mrs. Fleming arrived shortly, and he also beat her, and then ransacked the apartment for money before taking the car keys and driving to Akron.

School Office Hit By Fire

KENT, Ohio (AP) — A fire caused at least $20,000 damage to offices of the Kent City Board of Education early today in the city's old Town Hall.

Kent Fire Chief Fred Miller said the fire was caused by a short in the wiring of a ceiling light fixture. He said the center of the 134-year-old renovated downtown building was gutted.

School Supt. Robert Stanton said a preliminary investigation showed that no school records were destroyed. He said offices would be moved to a nearby building.

Firemen spent five hours at the scene.

Stanton said the offices housed computers and other office equipment. He said he did not know if any equipment sustained smoke or water damage.

Progress Reported In State Budget Conference Meet

By TAHLMAN KRUMM
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A weary Ohio General Assembly ends its 40th week today, apparently a bit closer to shedding its principal frustration — tax and budget legislation for the biennium that began July 1.

Particularly pleased are certain key members of the joint House-Senate Conference Committee assigned the task of molding a compromise from very different House and Senate notions of how the state should spend and tax for the next two years.

The House approved an income tax that would have raised some $1.5 billion in new revenue over the next two years. An increase in present sales taxes cleared the Senate calling for $780 million in new money.

The committee's job: Find an attractive alternative that will survive floor votes in both legislative chambers.

So far, committee attention has centered on appropriations levels. One member, Rep. Lloyd George Kerns, R-16 Richmond, says things are falling into place faster than expected.

Another, Sen. Robert Shaw, R-16 Columbus, calls headway being made "significant."

Shaw says tax talks will await spending decisions. Sources said the conference committee, with all meetings held behind closed doors, will probably get together again today, the 99th without permanent tax and budget legislation since the biennium began.

The meetings must be secret, Shaw concedes, because "most members are not willing to explain or divulge their various attitudes in public on some of the matters we discuss."

The form the conference committee alternative will take. It's still anyone's guess, insiders say.

There is some speculation, however, that the current six-man committee will complete its work on appropriations, then yield to a second conference committee that will work out an acceptable tax plan.

Appropriations work could still be concluded by the end of this week, admits Sen. Oakley Collins, R-18 Ironton, one of four Republicans on the committee.

In floor action Wednesday, the House voted 89-4 in favor of a bill authorizing the creation of a work or education furlough system for inmates of the state's penal system.

The measure sparked some heated debate. Rep. Raymond Luther, R-19 Newark, challenged the bill's provisions, claiming nothing could reach

Cincinnati Transit Subsidy Is Approved

CINCINNATI (AP) — Senior citizens will pay only 25-cents for rides on Cincinnati Transit buses beginning Oct. 15 under an additional subsidy voted Wednesday by City Council.

The elderly were required to pay 30-cents of the 45-cent fair under the former subsidy.

Senate Takes Up $15.4 Billion Tax Cut Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — One day after House passage, the Senate Finance Committee opened hearings today on a $15.4-billion tax cut bill which President Nixon is counting on to help revive the economy.

The committee chairman, Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said he planned to ask the first scheduled witness, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, if Phase 2 of the administration's economic program will contain provisions to hold down interest rates. They were not included in the 90-day wage-price freeze.

Nixon plans to announce Phase 2 details tonight on nationwide radio and television.

Long said in a prepared statement he thinks the House-passed version still does too much for business and not enough for individual taxpayers.

"In its present form this bill appears to be too much of a 'trickle down' operation, with too little of it ever getting down," he said.

Business would get seven times as much in new permanent tax reductions, he said, while the chief benefits for individuals would amount to speed-ups in tax cuts previously approved by Congress.

Nixon expressed gratitude Wednesday for House passage of the bill and added that prompt Senate hearings are "another welcome indication of the bipartisan congressional support for the new economic program."

Long doubts his committee will turn the bill into a "Christmas tree" with extraneous amendments, but he pointed out that the bill will be wide open for changes on the Senate floor.

"Unlike in the House, the Senate rules permit any amendment to be offered," he said. "And I know there is a temptation for senators to offer their amendments to a bill they know the President will sign."

Long has said he hopes to get the bill to the Senate late in October.

The House bill, in the first three years, would reduce taxes by $5.7 billion for business and by $9.7 billion for individuals.

It provides a 7-percent investment tax credit for companies spending on new plant and equipment but slows a fast depreciation allowance put into effect by the Treasury.

The measure also would repeal retroactive to Aug. 15, the 7-percent excise tax on autos and the 10-percent tax on light trucks.

Proxmire Fights To Repeal Nixon's Economic Authority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., says Congress should repeal President Nixon's power to freeze wages and prices to prevent him "from becoming an economic dictator."

Proxmire, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, prepared for introduction today a bill to rescind the Economic Stabilization Act, under which Nixon imposed the current 90-day wage-price freeze. The new measure would set up a system built around a five-member wage-and-price review board.

Nixon is to announce tonight the next phase of his new economic program, to supplant the freeze after it expires Nov. 13.

Presumably, Nixon's Phase 2 program will involve measures to be taken under authority of the law Proxmire wants repealed.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott has said Nixon may recommend extension of the act beyond April 30, 1972, as the basis for followup economic restraints.

Scott said he did not know what measures Nixon had decided to invoke in his Phase 2 program. Proxmire said he didn't either.

Some Senate Democrats had advocated an effort to work out in advance congressional alternatives for the post-freeze period.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said: "We'll see what he announces. Then we'll look at the possibilities."

37 Days Of Wilderness Life End For Boy In Florida

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy who lived in a wilderness 37 days after he fled from his home when he accidentally wounded his twin sister with a shotgun blast has a temporary new home in a juvenile shelter.

William Floyd Merrick left his home in flight Aug. 24 and lost 20 pounds living off the land. Authorities say he spent part of the time with a band of hippies in a wild area near his Atlantic Beach home.

His sister Bonnie died three days after she was shot, but Merrick didn't know about it. "He was greatly disturbed when he learned of his sister's death," said Lucy Farley, a juvenile court counselor. "He said he had not known what had happened."

Patrolman D. P. Green found Merrick last Friday walking through sand dunes along the ocean.

"He was kind of puny," Green said of Merrick. "He weighed about 80 pounds and his pants were too big for him."

Green said he didn't realize Merrick was the boy who had shot his sister until they reached the police station and asked if there had been any trouble at his home.

"He started crying," Green said. "All of a sudden I knew this was the boy who shot his sister. We got to talking and he admitted it."

Street Repair Completed In Stoutsville

Stoutsville Village Council met in regular session Monday evening with Mayor Goble Branham presiding.

The street supervisor, Rance Greeno, stated necessary patching had been done on streets and alleys. Street commissioner Boyd Marshall expressed need for a tar kettle. Council authorized him to get more information on this equipment and submit a council at next meeting.

Council members approved the recommendation of the Mayor that the Heidelberg United Church should put in sidewalk before blacktopping their driveway. Max Marshall asked that stop sign be put up at intersection of Leist and Brown Streets. Council approved purchase of five new stop signs.

Mayor reminded residents of the village not to burn leaves on village streets.

An ordinance on trailers was tabled until next meeting after a lengthy discussion.

Present in addition to the Mayor were Councilmen Gail Goldsberry, Neil Kern, James Lovett, Max Marshall, Lloyd Meyer and Elsworth Wright. Clerk, Mary E. Meyer, Boyd Marshall and Rance Greeno.

Brush Fire Destroys 7 Costly Homes

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A wild brush fire cracked through the hills above this picturesque town today, destroying at least seven expensive homes, damaging others and routing hundreds of residents.

Out-of-control flames raced over 2,200 acres by early today, in suburban Montecito and Summerland, and 700 firefighters drawn from throughout the state worked to cut lines around the blazes as planes dropped chemical retardants.

Seven persons were reported injured. The only one suffering serious injuries was a 74-year-old man with third-degree burns suffered in trying to put out flames that menaced his home.

Makeshift evacuation stations were set up at schools to shelter those who fled.

The blaze was the worst in a rash of brush and grass fires that broke out across Southern California this week. A 2,100-acre blaze near Fillmore, about 30 miles southeast of Santa Barbara, and six others in the same area were set by incendiary devices with delayed-time fuses, fire officials said.

The Fillmore fire was nearly extinguished, officials said.

Officials said there was no indication that the Santa Barbara fire was linked to the Fillmore area blazes.

The fire broke out Wednesday afternoon in a canyon on the edge of the Los Padres National Forest and quickly spread through chaparral made brittle and explosive by prolonged summer heat.

Brown Rips Demo Remap

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown today called Gov. John J. Gilligan's apportionment plan "a comedy of errors."

Brown, one of two Republicans on the five-man board, said Gilligan was now advertising an illegal plan in newspapers throughout the state.

Brown said the advertised version included corrections which Democrats inserted later. He said none were part of the official plan that got a 3-2 apportionment board vote.

Brown said the corrected plan still does not provide for representation for the city of Zanesville, which has a population of 33,045.

"Obviously the court will have to consider these and other errors," Brown said. He and Rep. Robert Manning of Akron, the other Republican, have refused to endorse the attempt to correct the plan after the board had adjourned.

The board's job was to redraw Ohio House and Senate districts based on the 1970 census. Any plan that gets court approval will be in effect for the next 10 years.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A spokesman for Lockheed-Georgia, manufacturers of the huge C5A transport plane, says the Air Force was warned of potential structural weakness that caused an engine to fall off a C5A Sept. 29.

The Air Force said the engine fell from the planes wing as it prepared to take off from Altus Air Force Base, Okla. As a result, seven C5As were grounded.

Major Oil Spill Reported Near Saginaw Bay

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard said Thursday a "major oil spill" dumped 208,698 gallons of fuel into the Saginaw River near where the river empties into Saginaw Bay on Lake Huron.

The 9th District Coast Guard headquarters in Cleveland reported a layer of oil three to four inches thick covered a 500-yard-long section of river near a Standard Oil Division of American Oil Co. terminal at Bay City, Mich.

The Coast Guard said it was informed of the spill at 5:30 a.m. Floating booms were being used to try to contain the spill while the oil was being cleaned up.

Standard said the No. 2 fuel oil apparently came from a cracked valve and the spill started about 3:30 a.m.

Emergency Board Bill Veto Fought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republicans in the Ohio House are expected to try next week to override Gov. John J. Gilligan's veto of a bill changing the make-up of the state Emergency Board.

GOP leaders failed to gather enough votes Wednesday to override the measure. A three-fifths vote is required — 60 in the House and 20 in the Senate.

There were 523 criminal cases filed during the month and 526 completed, drawing $1,693.

Also, 25 civil cases were filed, with 14 concluded. One marriage was performed by the court, $206.33 was collected for civil court cases and the marriage.

The small claims account collected $124 from 65 completed cases of 63 filed during the month.

There will be two guest speakers, one for the bond issue of our local area and the other for the Tri-County Vocational levy.

The meeting will be held to 60 minutes or less and Open House 60 minutes. There will be refreshments served with a time limit of 9:30 p.m.

The October meeting of the Westfall-Jackson P.T.B. will be held Monday 7:30 p.m. at Jackson School.

OU Report May Bring Legal Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Assistant Atty. Gen. George L. Jenkins was to receive a report later today or Friday on whether or not legal grounds exist for further action in the investigation of Ohio University financial dealings.

A special state grand jury was convened last month to look into real estate, insurance and loan transactions by the school involving two trustees. The panel was dismissed without returning any indictments.

But the attorney general's office is taking a second look at a state law governing educational corporations like the Ohio University Fund, which raises money for the school.

The transactions under investigation involved Fred H. Johnson, a trustee of both the fund and the university, and fund trustee Dwight H. Rutherford, an Athens insurance and banking executive.

The state law which may apply to their activities says no trustee of a corporation like the Ohio University Fund shall "be allowed any salary, emoluments, or perquisites."

The law provides that violators may be dismissed and that "such other relief as is equitable" may be sought.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The Governor's office of Federal-State Relations has applied to the Appalachian Regional Commission for $750,000 in federal funds to finance a program of removing junked cars from the state's roadways.

A program launched more than a year ago by Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. was successful in removing more than 12,000 junked cars, but about 500,000 remain in the state and local officials have been unable to handle the task of removing them.

Junk Auto Aid Sought

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The Governor's office of Federal-State Relations has applied to the Appalachian Regional Commission for $750,000 in federal funds to finance a program of removing junked cars from the state's roadways.

A program launched more than a year ago by Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. was successful in removing more than 12,000 junked cars, but about 500,000 remain in the state and local officials have been unable to handle the task of removing them.

The money will help finance a crusher and other equipment needed to get the junked cars out of creek beds and off of mountain sides.

The funds would also pay salaries of crew members and might be used to also hire a director for the program.

For instance, said Rep. Bella Abzug, R-N.Y., "there are laws that say a woman can't be a hotel desk clerk at night. But those laws don't protect a charwoman from the backbreaking work of scrubbing floors, at night while their 'protectors' are sleeping."

Mrs. Abzug said the provision exempting women from the draft was designed to confuse the issue and perpetuate sex discrimination in laws.

Most opponents of the amendment said it is not necessary to amend the Constitution to guarantee women equal rights. Existing laws, particularly those dealing with civil rights and equal employment opportunity, afford broader protection than the proposed amendment, they said.

Equal Rights Amendment Action In House Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — House action on a proposed constitutional amendment designed to guarantee women equal rights with men was postponed today because of the death of a congressman.

The scheduled vote on the amendment was put off until next Tuesday as the House planned to meet and adjourn out of respect for Rep. James G. Fulton, R-Pa., who died Wednesday night.

House debate on the equal rights amendment Wednesday centered on a rider added to it that would greatly reduce its impact.

The rider, added by the House Judiciary Committee, would exempt women from the draft and permit states to retain "reasonable" laws that recognize differences between the sexes.

To Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., chief sponsor of the amendment, the rider is an attempt to nullify it. She says she will vote against her own amendment if the rider is approved.

But Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., author of the rider, says it is needed to retain laws designed to protect the health and safety of women.

In a spirited debate Wednesday devoted largely to the Wiggins rider, champions of Mrs. Griffiths' amendment dismissed such "protective" laws as devices to keep women out of jobs men want.

"For instance," said Rep. Bella Abzug, R-N.Y., "there are laws that say a woman can't be a hotel desk clerk at night. But those laws don't protect a charwoman from the backbreaking work of scrubbing floors, at night while their 'protectors' are sleeping."

Court Funds Distributed

The Circleville Municipal Court collected $13,799.12 in fines, costs and bond forfeitures during September.

The city will receive $8,647.34 of the money, while Pickaway County gets $1,917.05.

State treasurer will receive $3,195.45 and the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department gets $180.70.

There were 523 criminal cases filed during the month and 526 completed, drawing $1,693.

Also, 25 civil cases were filed, with 14 concluded. One marriage was performed by the court, $206.33 was collected for civil court cases and the marriage.

Note C5A Weakness

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A spokesman for Lockheed-Georgia, manufacturers of the huge C5A transport plane, says the Air Force was warned of potential structural weakness that caused an engine to fall off a C5A Sept. 29.

The Air Force said the engine fell from the planes wing as it prepared to take off from Altus Air Force Base, Okla. As a result, seven C5As were grounded.

A spokesman for Lockheed said Wednesday its engineers had already notified the Air Force that the mounting that holds the engine was "an area of potential weakness" in a C5A that had logged a great deal of air time.

According to Lockheed, the aircraft involved in the incident had logged 1,300 flying hours and 3,000 landings.

Lockheed engineering analysts had identified the aft-pylon mount as an area of potential weakness and an engineering change was proposed to strengthen this area," the spokesman said. "The Altus incident occurred prior to the time the engineering change was made to the aircraft."

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A spokesman for Lockheed-Georgia, manufacturers of the huge C5A transport plane, says the Air Force was warned of potential structural weakness that caused an engine to fall off a C5A Sept. 29.

The Air Force said the engine fell from the planes wing as it prepared to take off from Altus Air Force Base, Okla. As a result, seven C5As were grounded.

A spokesman for Lockheed said Wednesday its engineers had already notified the Air Force that the mounting that holds the engine was "an area of potential weakness" in a C5A that had logged a great deal of air time.

Major Oil Spill Reported Near Saginaw Bay

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard said Thursday a "major oil spill" dumped 208,698 gallons of fuel into the Saginaw River near where the river empties into Saginaw Bay on Lake Huron.

The 9th District Coast Guard headquarters in Cleveland reported a layer of oil three to four inches thick covered a 500-yard-long section of river near a Standard Oil Division of American Oil Co. terminal at Bay City, Mich.

The Coast Guard said it was informed of the spill at 5:30 a.m. Floating booms were being used to try to contain the spill while the oil was being cleaned up.

Standard said the No. 2 fuel oil apparently came from a cracked valve and the spill started about 3:30 a.m.

Emergency Board Bill Veto Fought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republicans in the Ohio House are expected to try next week to override Gov. John J. Gilligan's veto of a bill changing the make-up of the state Emergency Board.

GOP leaders failed to gather enough votes Wednesday to override the measure. A three-fifths vote is required — 60 in the House and 20 in the Senate.

There were 523 criminal cases filed during the month and 526 completed, drawing $1,693.

Also, 25 civil cases were filed, with 14 concluded. One marriage was performed by the court, $206.33 was collected for civil court cases and the marriage.

The small claims account collected $124 from 65 completed cases of 63 filed during the month.

There will be two guest speakers, one for the bond issue of our local area and the other for the Tri-County Vocational levy.

The meeting will be held to 60 minutes or less and Open House 60 minutes. There will be refreshments served with a time limit of 9:30 p.m.

The October meeting of the Westfall-Jackson P.T.B. will be held Monday 7:30 p.m. at Jackson School.

Equal Rights Amendment Action In House Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — House action on a proposed constitutional amendment designed to guarantee women equal rights with men was postponed today because of the death of a congressman.

The scheduled vote on the amendment was put off until next Tuesday as the House planned to meet and adjourn out of respect for Rep. James G. Fulton, R-Pa., who died Wednesday night.

House debate on the equal rights amendment Wednesday centered on a rider added to it that would greatly reduce its impact.

The rider, added by the House Judiciary Committee, would exempt women from the draft and permit states to retain "reasonable" laws that recognize differences between the sexes.

To Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., chief sponsor of the amendment, the rider is an attempt to nullify it. She says she will vote against her own amendment if the rider is approved.

But Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., author of the rider, says it is needed to retain laws designed to protect the health and safety of women.

In a spirited debate Wednesday devoted largely to the Wiggins rider, champions of Mrs. Griffiths' amendment dismissed such "protective" laws as devices to keep women out of jobs men want.

"For instance," said Rep. Bella Abzug, R-N.Y., "there are laws that say a woman can't be a hotel desk clerk at night. But those laws don't protect a charwoman from the backbreaking work of scrubbing floors, at night while their 'protectors' are sleeping."

Junk Auto Aid Sought

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The Governor's office of Federal-State Relations has applied to the Appalachian Regional Commission for $750,000 in federal funds to finance a program of removing junked cars from the state's roadways.

A program launched more than a year ago by Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. was successful in removing more than 12,000 junked cars, but about 500,000 remain in the state and local officials have been unable to handle the task of removing them.

The money will help finance a crusher and other equipment needed to get the junked cars out of creek beds and off of mountain sides.

The funds would also pay salaries of crew members and might be used to also hire a director for the program.

For instance, said Rep. Bella Abzug, R-N.Y., "there are laws that say a woman can't be a hotel desk clerk at night. But those laws don't protect a charwoman from the backbreaking work of scrubbing floors, at night while their 'protectors' are sleeping."

Mrs. Abzug said the provision exempting women from the draft was designed to confuse the issue and perpetuate sex discrimination in laws.

Most opponents of the amendment said it is not necessary to amend the Constitution to guarantee women equal rights. Existing laws, particularly those dealing with civil rights and equal employment opportunity, afford broader protection than the proposed amendment, they said.

Ask School Busing Funds From U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Southern school chiefs under court orders to desegregate and two Northern superintendents trying to do it voluntarily have appealed to Congress for busing funds.

"I suspect this is one of the first times Southern and Northern schools superintendents have come together and discussed this problem of integration," said Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn. "It may set a precedent."

Mondale is chairman of the Select Committee on Equal Educational Opportunity which heard the educators Wednesday.

The superintendents were united in their commitment to integration and their acceptance of massive busing as the only way to correct segregation rooted in housing.

They said President Nixon's Aug. 3 denial of federal busing funds has greatly hampered their desegregation efforts.

The $1.5-billion school desegregation bill now pending in Congress should be made available for busing in Northern and Southern schools, whether desegregation voluntarily or under court orders, they said.

New Outbreak Hits Ireland

Explosions Rip 10 Belfast Areas

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — British troops and guerrillas fought a gun battle across the frontier between Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic early today, army headquarters reported.

The clash followed a surge of shooting, bombing and rioting in Belfast. In one period 10 explosions in 10 minutes occurred in the capital of the British province.

The border battle flared when a British infantry patrol spotted two men placing a package—later discovered to be gelignite—behind a customs post at Middletown, County Armagh. When challenged, the men ran toward the republic.

"The soldiers pursued them and were fired on by automatic weapons from across the border," the army said. The troops returned the fire.

The spokesman added it was "a very rare occurrence" for British troops to shoot into the republic. There were no army casualties in the incident.

A detective sergeant and civilian were shot and seriously wounded by two guerrilla gunmen who attacked them from the rear in a Belfast street early today, police reported. The assailants escaped.

One of 10 explosions in the city Wednesday night damaged buildings at Belfast's port terminal where ferries ply between Northern Ireland and England.

The latest warfare between British soldiers and gunmen believed to be members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army came as provincial Prime Minister Brian Faulkner prepared to fly to London for security talks with the British government starting today.

Armco Says It Does Not Discriminate

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — "Chance," rather than discrimination best accounted for the fact that a lower proportion of black workers were accepted into a job promotion program at the Armco Steel Corp., according to testimony offered by Armco against bias charges before the Maryland Human Relations Commission.

The commission, in establishing a prima facie case against Armco, had partially relied on a statistical analysis of entrance into the program that claimed whites "had a substantially greater likelihood of surviving" an interviewing process than did blacks.

But Dr. Robert M. Guion, an expert witness called by Armco, said the analysis was statistically wrong. The difference between the white and black rate of acceptance was "insignificant," he said. It "can be better attributed to chance than to any systematic source," he said.

Guion is a professor of industrial psychology at Bowling Green Ohio State College. He has served as a consultant to Armco, but has also served on an advisory committee to the U.S. Office of Federal Contract Compliance, which enforces anti-bias orders to federal contractors.

The commission had charged Armco's Baltimore division with discriminating against its black workers when filling supervisory posts.

The commission has also equated a "rating sheet" used by Armco to interview applicants with "aptitude tests," which the U.S. Supreme Court has said must be job-related.

Armco's personnel manager, Dr. William J. Saunders, presented evidence Tuesday purporting to show that the rating sheet was in fact job-related.

The world of non-fiction can be exciting for children. In these books of fact children can learn while having fun reading. Non-fiction books are written on every subject from good manners through history and travel, poetry, science, pets and sports. There is something for everyone on the non-fiction shelves. The Children's Room has five new non-fiction books.

In "Look Again" by Tana Hoban children can learn to really see the world around them. There is not one word of text in this book. It is, instead, a series of photographs. On one page a small part of an object shows through a square cut in the page. On the next page the entire object is shown. Children try to imagine from the small square what the object will be.

For a thorough discussion of air, diffusion, carbon oxides and other related matters children can turn to "Gases" by Vicki Cobb. This book discusses how scientists discovered the existence and characteristics of various gases. It is illustrated by Ellie Haines and also has some photographs of scientists.

Space exploration is currently of interest to children. A new book on this subject is "The Moon Explorers" by Tony Simon. A brief description of the moon, a discussion of the Apollo 11 flight and the future of moon exploration are included in this book. There are illustrations by Lloyd Birmingham and some photographs.

Almost all children go through a stage of being interested in dinosaurs. "The Riddle of the Stegosaurus" tells about how paleontologists through the centuries have worked to determine that this prehistoric animal looked like and how it lived. D. C. Ipsen has written an exciting story of how scientists work and how they think.

"People of the Short Blue Corn" by Harold Courtlander is a collection of seventeen tales and legends about the Hopi Indians. The stories included are on a variety of topics such as why good and evil came to be and how the clans got their names. Some are funny stories and some are moving, serious stories. They all work together to provide an overall picture of one of the pre New World tribes of Indians from the American Southwest area. Line drawings are by Enrico Arno.

IS YOUR FAMILY KEEPING YOU FROM HAVING A SPORTS CAR?

If you think a sports car isn't big enough for a man with a family, you haven't seen the Fiat 124 Sport Coupe. It has enough room inside for four 6-foot men. With baggage.

Yet it is a real sports car. Not just a sporty-looking car. It'll take you from zero to 70 in 14.6 secs., it has a DOHC engine, a five-speed gearbox and disc brakes on all four wheels.

It's not only the kind of car you really need when you're driving a family; it's the kind you've always wanted when you're by yourself.

GI Drug Problem

The hope that homeward-bound GIs in Vietnam who are addicted to heroin or other opiates would voluntarily submit to treatment has fizzled. From now on all who show indications of addiction will be required to undergo treatment.

In congressional testimony, Dr. Jerome H. Jaffee, director of the President's special drug-abuse prevention program, explained what happened when GIs were given a choice of treatment in a VA hospital prior to completion of their tour of duty, or going home without treatment.

Between July 1 and Sept. 10, more than 86,000 servicemen were tested for addiction. Slightly more than 5 percent, or 4,400, showed positive signs. But during that period only 23 GIs voluntarily transferred to a VA hospital for treatment.

Mandatory treatment of those known to be addicted, however, is only a start. Even Dr. Jaffee admits that perhaps as many as an additional 10 percent of the returning GIs use hard narcotics intermittently, and escape detection in the testing program.

Some of them may be able to kick the habit on their own upon return to civilian status. Many will not. They also deserve the opportunity to restructure their lives along constructive lines, a chance many of them may never have as long as their bodies contain the ravages of addiction.

Popular Attractions

Other countries have their fairs and community celebrations, but none on a par with the state and county fairs held in the United States. Last year 112 million Americans went to the fairs, upping the previous season's attendance by 10 per cent.

Reports from the fairgrounds this year are of even larger crowds, expanded exhibits and more fanciful amusements. New records have been set at many of those already held.

Well, why not? Where else are crowds downright enjoyable but at a fair-ground? But perhaps it is not the crowds or excitement of the midway which draws many people to the fairs, but the country atmosphere and — to many — a new form of relaxation.

At numerous large fairs exhibits number in the hundreds and farm animals abound. To the rural dweller such sights may not be unusual. But with only 4 per cent of the population now living on farms, many fairgoers have never set foot on a farm. It is their chance to see and envy a way of life they may never enjoy.

Fairs are for people, all kinds of people. That could be why their popularity continues to increase.

Art Donor Restrictions

Thomas Hoving, director of New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art, has voiced some timely warnings about the finances required to keep such magnificent institutions as his open to the public. Private donors years ago established funds for the purchase of art objects, and these funds are added to periodically by contemporaries.

These contributions have enabled American museums to purchase and display some of the world's finest art. The problem is not in acquisition, but in providing the operating facilities to house and protect the objects.

Most endowments and contributions are earmarked specifically for purchasing and maintaining art collections. They cannot be used for operating expenses, which are not minor.

The shortsightedness of these restrictions is obvious. It could mean famous art repositories with adequate resources to acquire new additions may be forced to close because operating funds have been depleted.

Treasurer In Trouble

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Federal immigration agents say they caught 36 illegal aliens in a raid at a food company owned by the treasurer-designate of the United States, Romana Banuelos.

Mrs. Banuelos was at Ramona's Food Products Co. in suburban Gardena Tuesday when six Immigration and Naturalization Service agents entered and arrested 27 women and nine men employees, all Mexicans. More than 30 other workers escaped over a back fence, agents said.

Mrs. Banuelos told newsmen she didn't know illegal aliens worked at the plant and said the government raid may have been "part of an attempt by Democrats to block my nomination as treasurer of the United States." She did not elaborate on the allegation.

Agents said Mrs. Banuelos's 300-employee corporation had been raided five times before and illegal aliens were found each time, but agents did not give a total arrest figure.

President Nixon nominated the 46-year-old businesswoman Sept. 20 to become the nation's 34th treasurer. Appointment to the $36,000 job requires Senate confirmation.

However, Dummy is quick to point out, he hopes the President doesn't get the idea that he personally is nixing the idea.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Not all our milk is pasteurized, and as a precaution, we boil our milk. Now we hear that boiled milk is dangerous. Is this true, or a false health rumor?

Mrs. F. F., Iowa
Dear Mrs. F.: Pasteurization of all milk is, of course, the ideal way to protect against contamination by bacteria.

Boiling of milk is a safety factor when pasteurization, unfortunately, does not exist. There is a very specific danger in feeding boiled milk to young children who are suffering with diarrhea.

Diarrhea results in an excessive loss of water in the body.

Milk contains sodium chloride, or salt. When milk is boiled, there is a greater concentration of salt in it. When it is then fed to an infant suffering from diarrhea, the balance between fluid and salt is upset, and a dangerous condition may ensue.

Adults and children in perfect health are not threatened by moderate quantities of milk that has been boiled.

Many educational campaigns by Public Health officials are aimed at teaching mothers the important safety regime, especially since boiled milk has for such a long time been the "standard" treatment for infant diarrhea.

I would like to add another important warning for the safety of infants. It is far removed from the subject of boiled milk.

Boric acid, long used to soak diapers, can be absorbed by the infant and can actually be a threat to his life.

There also is no longer any need for the use of boric acid in the eyes. There are now many safer drugs that do not pose such danger to the child.

My father had an appendix operation. Now, three months later, he has developed an intestinal obstruction, and again going to be operated on tomorrow.

Was this the fault of the original surgery?
Miss A. R., Ohio
Dear Miss R.: Too often blame is placed in areas where it does not belong.

It may very well be that your father's present condition is wholly unrelated to the appendix operation.

There are many types of intestinal obstruction, and many causes for it.

Sometimes adhesions form after abdominal surgery. These can be responsible for intestinal obstruction. It must be remembered that all people heal in their own individual way. Just as some scars after surgery heal with a fine undetectable line, others may themselves heal badly, and show wide, or "keloid" scars.

Similarly, some people tend to develop adhesions more readily than others.

Your father's recovery is far more important than seeking a "fault" which may well be his own.

2-Headed Pig

Dies At Harrison

HARRISON, Ohio (AP) — The two-headed pig, born Saturday night at a farm near here, has died.

The pig's body has been turned over to Marc Woodward, a biology teacher, for embalming. He said it would be displayed at the William Henry Harrison High School.

The pig was one of 11 born at the Edwin Barth farm to a Yorkshire sow. All of the others were normal.

At the time of the birth veterinarians said they did not expect the pig would live long. It has been fed with an eye dropper during the hours of its life.

President Visits

All 50 States

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has become the first chief executive to visit all 50 states while in office. He did it by flying to a Delaware estate to meet Republican fund-raisers.

Nixon made a 3 1/2-hour helicopter trip to Greenville, Del., Tuesday night to meet with chairmen of $500-a-plate "salute to the President" dinners to be held in 22 cities Nov. 9.

The White House said the Republican party paid for the quick journey, which saw Nixon spend more time aloft than at the multi-acre estate of financier-industrialist John Rollins, national chairman for the dinners.

House Approves

Tax Break Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed Wednesday by voice vote a controversial package of business and individual tax cuts, $15.4 billion over three years, keyed to President Nixon's new economic program.

Despite a last-minute stepup in opposition by labor union officials, the House acted without even demanding a roll call. About 50 members were on the floor.

The Real Issues

By JEFFERY HART

The profound political content of the Taiwan question now before the U.N. should not be obscured by the procedural complexities that tend to occupy the foreground of the news. Procedurally, the U.S. strategy, at least on the surface, is to prevent the expulsion of the Republic of China by a defeating an Algerian-Albanian resolution which would bring about the expulsion, and b) having such expulsion labeled an "important question" to be decided by a two-thirds vote.

Though U.N. Ambassador George Bush expressed satisfaction with two preliminary votes, the prospect remains murky.

The real political substance, however, has little to do with the procedural backing and filling. First of all, membership in the U.N., for Taiwan or for anybody else, isn't all that important. West Germany is doing very nicely, thank you, without a seat in the Turtle Bay debating society, and both Israel and France, to name only two, have never hesitated to defy U.N. pronouncements.

Second, however, the resolution of the Taiwan issue will be important as giving an indication of the ultimate intentions of the U.S. toward the Nationalist Chinese and, beyond that, toward non-Communist Asia generally. Stripped of the procedural gobbledygook, the blunt question is: How much political muscle is the U.S. willing to employ on behalf of the Republic of China seat?

For there is in fact little doubt that the U.S. can, if it wishes, bring about almost any result in the U.N. Without U.S. financial support, the U.N. would collapse. Economically, militarily and politically, the majority of U.N. members exist in one degree or another of dependence upon the U.S. As a political figure wise in the ways of the U.N. irreverently remarked to me, "If the U.S. looked U Thant in the eye and told him to run up the Confederate flag, you can bet that U Thant would run it up. And not only that. He could turn out 100 delegations to salute it."

Therefore it follows that the expulsion of Taiwan would be a result in which the U.S. had connived, though tacitly, under the appearance of seeking a "two-China" solution.

And this, in turn, would have two very serious meanings. First, we could anticipate further weakening of the U.S. strategic position in the Western Pacific. If the U.S. showed itself unwilling to use its muscle in a semi-fictional entity like the U.N., it certainly would be signaling its unwillingness to use its muscle in the real world of strategic relations. Taiwan, increasingly isolated, would then have to seek some accommodation with either China or Soviet Russia. Millions of overseas Chinese, an important community throughout Asia, would know which way the wind was blowing. The strategic Japan-Taiwan-Korea arc would be breached.

In terms of domestic politics, the expulsion of Taiwan would completely crystallize conservative alienation from the Nixon Administration. Some conservatives, to be sure, have already a "suspended" their support over the projected Peking visit. A larger number, however, are not so much suspending support as suspending judgment, waiting to judge the true import of the new Nixon diplomacy.

"I can swallow the Peking visit," a leading Republican conservative said to me, "but expulsion of Taiwan would be my Rubicon."

The events this month at the U.N. will determine whether he crosses that Rubicon.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the story of how a simple change of words from "should" to "shall" is going to have a tremendous impact on American workers and their employers.

It involves the growing list of responsibilities that business is being asked to take on, a list that includes pollution control and social change. Add to the list a greater concern for the health and safety of workers.

Under the Williams-Steiger Occupational Safety and Health Act, which is now operational, every employer whose business affects commerce is responsible for a growing list of safety and health standards.

The act, in the words of a government official, is "the first comprehensive health and safety legislation in the United States."

Obligated are the shoeshine stand that employs one worker and uses polish made in another state, and General Motors, which has 118 plants and more than a half-million workers in 18 states and 68 cities.

Nevertheless, a large percentage of the 4.5 million employers and 60 million workers covered under the act, which became effective April 28, know little about their responsibilities. They are very broad.

To sum up: A great many of the voluntary safety and health standards suggested that certain procedures be followed. "You should..." was typically the way the sentences started. Standards now will be law, and the instructions will say, "you shall..."

Many existing standards are incorporated into the law. And a growing list of new ones will grow over the years as the new administration, which has only 750 employees and a budget of $26.5 million, grows. And it will.

The purpose of the new act is "to assure so far as possible every working man and woman in the nation safe and healthful working conditions and to preserve our human resources."

But doesn't any good employer see to this anyway? They might think so, but safety officials claim that the job has not always been undertaken in a scientific way. Records on health and safety are poor or nonexistent.

"Will some of the standards tend to hamstring business?" an OSHA spokesman was asked.

To the contrary, he replied. "Safety is good business," he added, and to illustrate his contention he quoted figures from the National Safety Council showing losses of $9 billion to $10 billion through workplace accidents.

Enforcement at first will be largely voluntary, and the OSHA hopes to have considerable help from industry associations and unions. The agency has only 350 inspectors.

Nevertheless, it does have great powers to inspect, investigate, cite, propose penalties and even take action that could lead to fines of as much as $20,000 and a year in jail.

It is aiming first at five target industries that have the highest number of disabling injuries: longshoring, roofing and sheet metal, meat and meat products, mobile homes, and lumber and wood products.

As its activities expand, however, it will likely have some impact on every industry.

Anyone interested is advised to write for "A Handy Reference Guide" to the act. The address: U. S. Department of Labor, Occupational Safety and Health Administration, Washington, D.C. 20210.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a lady liberationist gets tired of hearing:

"What do women really want? They own the world already. Why do they want to run it?"

"Free them? That makes me laugh. Free them from what?"

"The hand that rocks the cradle now wants to upset the apple cart."

"Women do deserve special consideration because they have the problem of bearing children. But men have a problem, too. They have to bear with women."

"Agatha, how can you hope to be equal to a man if you go around acting like a woman?"

"Look, they gave the women the right to vote because it was thought they would clean up politics. That was 50 years or so ago. So what about politics today? Has it ever been in a bigger mess?"

"What good does it do to give a woman what she wants anyway? As soon as she gets it, she decides she wants something else."

"Hey, Agatha, I just thought up a slogan for your women's liberation movement. How about 'Today the world, tomorrow the universe?'

"All I can say is we'll never have a female president as long as I'm alive and resident."

"Imagine having a Supreme Court made up of four old men and five old ladies. It just doesn't make sense."

"This whole female freedom movement sounds to me like a rumor in a bloomer."

"Why should women get paid as much as men? If they did, would they spend their money on men the way men spend their money on women now? In a pig's eye they would!"

"I wouldn't mind womankind being liberated if someone would agree to liberate mankind, too."

"No matter how equal you make a woman she'll always expect a man to do the pushing when they go through a revolving door."

"Agatha, if I agree to right all your wrongs, will you get out of the pulpit and back into the kitchen? I'm hungry, honey."

'Turn In A Pusher' Plan Boosts Narcotics Arrests

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP) — Police in this Washington, D.C., suburb say the offering of a cash bounty to persons who are willing to point out narcotics peddlers is beginning to pay off in increased investigations and arrests.

"So far it's been phenomenally successful," said police Sgt. Carroll Burracker. The program has led to 10 convictions of drug pushers and has resulted in increased investigations in 90 other cases, officials say.

The drive, called "Turn in a Pusher" or "TIP," allows anonymous tipsters to point out narcotics sellers to police and, if the information leads to a conviction, the informant can collect as much as $300.

Burracker said the drive was launched Sept. 16 by police and two radio stations, which give out the telephone number of the bounty headquarters.

In addition to the calls that have led police to pushers, Burracker said, about 300 others have been dry runs either because the peddlers have left Northern Virginia or the informant did not have enough information.

He said about 10 per cent of the callers are willing to introduce a police undercover agent to the pusher, but "even then we don't ask the caller his name."

Calls are accepted during the afternoon and evening in an office whose location is not disclosed for security reasons, Burracker said.

Some of the calls come from rival drug pushers, he said.

"In some cases two or three drug dealers may be working one shopping center when one of them decides to eliminate the competition and he turns his fellow dealers in," Burracker said.

In other cases, he said, infrequent users who pay high prices for low grade narcotics may get revenge on a dealer by turning him in to the police.

James B. Hootor, a volunteer who mans the telephones at the bounty headquarters, said the busiest time for calls is "when the kids are out of school and they hear the advertisements."

"I don't like it at all," Hootor said. "But this is war and it isn't a conventional war. There are people out there making a living by crippling young people's minds and bodies."

The bounty money is contributed by businesses concerned over the rising number of drug cases in Northern Virginia, Burracker said.

The program was prompted by the evidences of soaring drug use, he said, including 10 overdose deaths reported so far this year.

Duncan Confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Wednesday confirmed the appointment of Ohio Supreme Court Justice Robert Duncan to the Military Court of Appeals.

The 44-year-old Urbana native becomes the first Negro ever to serve on the court, highest military tribunal in the land.

Duncan's appointment by President Nixon to the three-judge appeals panel was approved by a voice vote. He succeeds Homer Ferguson of Michigan.

Duncan served in a number of capacities in Ohio's legal system before his 1968 appointment and subsequent election to the Supreme Court.

He was Columbus Municipal Court judge for more than two years. Before that he was chief counsel in the attorney general's office, an assistant Columbus city attorney and an attorney examiner for the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation.

Reagan Plans Trip To Asia For President

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)

Gov. Ronald Reagan will carry personal goodwill messages from President Nixon to Japanese Emperor Hirohito, Prime Minister Eisaku Sato and heads of four other nations when he leaves Friday on a two-week Asian tour.

Reagan, his wife Nancy and their 13-year-old son, Skipper, also will visit Taiwan, Singapore, Thailand and South Korea.

"I am very pleased that we are able to undertake this mission for the President," Reagan said in a statement. "In addition to reaffirming the close relations between the Pacific nations and the United States, this trip will enable us to cement trade relations between California and those countries."

The Reagans' first stop in an Air Force jet transport provided by Nixon—other than refueling in Japan—will be in Taipei, Taiwan, where Reagan will represent Nixon at National Day ceremonies Sunday.

U.S. Sets Mideast Meets To Study Peace Prospects

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. officials have set up more meetings with Egyptian and Israeli diplomats to try to determine where the latest statements by Cairo and Jerusalem leave the American effort for an interim Middle East settlement.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers meets Friday with Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad of Egypt to explore the Cairo official's speech Wednesday to the U.N. General Assembly. It will be their second discussion this week.

In a breakfast session today, the State Department's Middle East specialist, Asst. Secretary Joseph Sisco, planned to go over developments with Israeli Ambassador Itzhak Rabin.

There were surprising developments Wednesday from both sides, at least in terms of language.

Riad insisted Egypt would never accept a separate interim agreement on reopening the Suez Canal, but he used much milder language than other Cairo officials had in the past. And, U.S. officials said, he left open the possibility of an interim settlement if part-and-parcel of an over-all peace agreement.

On the other hand, Israeli Premier Golda Meir issued a statement in Jerusalem charging Rogers had encouraged Egypt to hold to a "rigid position," in his speech to the U.N. this week.

"I am afraid that in the process of making such statements, Mr. Rogers made it more difficult for himself to offer the good services he had intended," she said.

Riad generally refrained from such attacks in his speech, which American officials said was most important for not closing any doors on the U.S. interim settlement efforts.

In fact, he never directly referred to the Rogers' six-point proposal, an omission Egyptian officials explained indicated Cairo has not ruled out an interim Suez settlement if it is directly connected to a final agreement.

Wetback Was Nixon Employee

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Times reported today that an illegal Mexican alien, using forged identification papers, worked for two days as a gardener at the Western White House before his identity was discovered.

The newspaper published the story in connection with a report Tuesday by the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service of a raid at the Mexican food products firm of the United States, Romana Banuelos, in which the government said 36 illegal Mexican aliens were apprehended.

The Times gave this account: Francisco Martinez-Llamas, 32, was hired last July as a landscaper at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif. He used falsified papers to enter the country.

Martinez-Llamas passed a Secret Service check and worked two days before being apprehended by the FBI. He voluntarily left the country.

The White House had no immediate comment on whether security regulations were violated.

On Wednesday, the White House had said President Nixon wasn't considering withdrawing his nomination of Mrs. Banuelos as U.S. treasurer after the federal raid on her food products firm in suburban Gardena.

Marie Hamilton Honored For Grand Chapter Post

The Marie L. Hamilton Reception was held Oct. 2 from 2:30 to 5 p.m. in the Masonic Temple with 172 in attendance honoring her appointment as General Grand Chapter Committee Member, Chairman of Registration.

Worthy matron Beverly Currence opened ceremony with a welcome to all and read a poem, "True Friendship." Worthy matron Beverly then addressed the rest of her address to Marie L. Hamilton, the honored guest. She then presented Marie L. Hamilton with a plaque depicting all her accomplishments in Eastern Star from her Circleville Chapter.

Miss Hamilton dressed in blue, wore a blue and gold corsage given by the Chapter, then addressed all in attendance to give a special welcome to her 1931 to 1937 co-workers. Those present were Martha Jenkins, deputy of district 2, Hudson, Ohio; Anna Cochensparger, deputy of district 8, Lafayette, Ohio; Roberta K. Mindling, deputy of district 25, Beverly, Ohio; Stella F. Mull, deputy of district 23 and Margaret R. Shane, grand page, all in the year 1937.

Officers of 1937 present were: Worthy matrons Louise Stegall, Ruth M. Porter, Dorothy F. Ferrell, Helen S. Jones and Esther Davis; Bertha Embrey, chaplain, Elizabeth K. Morris, sentinel, Ina C. Smith, Ruth and Mary Denman, Esther.

Welcomed by the worthy matron were past grand officers: Grace W. Grether, past grand matron; Marjorie F. Bean, past grand matron; Irene E. Thornburg, past grand matron; Betty M. Johnson, past grand matron; Cathryn Wilson, past grand matron; Roberta K. Mindling, past grand matron; Helen M. Bartley, past grand matron; Marie L. Hamilton, past grand matron; Leila S. McAbee, Mary S. Johnson, Mabel B. Rea, Eleanor Six, Ursel C. Graves, Lida Meadows, Mary Bevens, Jessie Schenowl, Irene Lowery and Alice Ann Wood, past grand organist of Kentucky.

Grand officers were Velma Baker, grand choir; Thelma Minor, grand representative of Quebec; Hallie Day, grand representative of Arkansas and Joan Dotson, grand marshal.

Past matrons attending from Circleville chapter were: E. Faye Mahaffey, Marcylyn S. Evans, Pauline Hundley, Margaret Shane, Ruth Cline, Pauline Cook, Kathryn C. Reber, Elizabeth R. Dunkel, Garnet Reichelderfer, Miriam Barnhart, Chestora Peters, Betty L. Liston and Billie Osborne. Past patrons were L. Robert Liston Jr., James Osborne, William Cook, Walden E. Reichelderfer and Lawrence L. Johnson, who was Miss Hamilton's worthy patron in 1929.

Worthy matrons and patrons of other chapters were Lois Dyer, Margaret Cassidy, Dorothy Coughlin, Virginia S. Moats, Kay Black, Margurite Evans and Beverly and William Currence.

Officers of Circleville chapter attending were Lola Gaylor, Kathryn Thomerson, Elaine Bowman, Mary Clifton, Leona Riegel, Linda Litter, Arlene Hart, Thelma Noecker, Betsy French, Garnet Reichelderfer, Forest Thomerson and other members and visitors too numerous to name.

After the flag presentation by worthy patron William Currence and the Pledge of Allegiance, a program was presented by the program chairman, Margaret Shane. Soloists were Gladys Robinson and Joan Pettit. The Meadow Larks quartet and organ music was provided by Pauline Hundley, Elaine Bowman and Dwain Hart.

Chaplain, Arlene Hart, gave the benediction and all guests retired to the dining room where refreshments were served by Mary Johnson and Marcylyn Evans and committee of Past Matrons of Circleville chapter. The dining room was decorated with blue and gold and the flowers were provided by William Cook. The decorations followed the theme used by Miss Hamilton during her year as worthy grand matron. A gift of flowers and a cut glass vase was presented to Marie L. Hamilton, general grand chapter committee member, chairman of registration, by Leona Riegel, associate matron, on behalf of Circleville chapter 90.

Worthy matron Beverly Currence and worthy patron William Currence wish to give a very special thanks to their committees: registration — Kathryn Thomerson, chairman, Lola Taylor, Thelma Noecker, Mary Clifton, Arlene Hart and Guy O. Sark; decorations — Pauline and William Cook; entertainment — Margaret Shane, chairman, Elaine Bowman, Chesotra Peters, Pauline Hundley, Joan Pettit, Gladys Robinson, Dwain Hart and the Meadow Larks; refreshments — Mary Johnson, Marcylyn Evans, co-chairman, Lucile Webb, Rosemary Horn, Billie Osborne, Audrey Turner, Frances Elsea, Crissie Hall, Lucile Jones, Miriam Barnhart, Faye Mahaffey, John Evans and Lawrence Johnson.

Mrs. Fleming voiced a "thank you" for her mother, Mrs. Josie Seymour for cards and flowers she had received while in the hospital. She also announced that Mrs. Seymour will celebrate her 85 birthday Sunday Oct. 10th and she will have open house that day honoring her mother.

Mrs. Ruth O'Day gave the financial report, and all members paid their dues for the coming year. Mrs. Vonna Risor gave a splendid report of Gardeners Day out which she attended last month. Mrs. Joe Sheets reported on the Therapy program last month at Orient State School and announced Oct. 12 as the next program with Mrs. Clyde Michel and Mrs. Herman Porter as chairmen.

The topic will be Seed Pictures. Several members volunteered their help. Mrs. Herman Porter installed the officers in a very pleasing manner and presented each with a lovely flower. The Ways and Means committee are making plans for a window display at the Pumpkin Show with Mrs. Otha Lewis and Miss Saralie Grabbill as chairmen.

Several members volunteered their help at the Flower Show at the Pumpkin Show, Oct. 20. It was announced that the Fall Regional meeting will be held on Nov. 12 at the Methodist church in Circleville and members were urged to attend.

Mrs. Marion's Class Holds Memorial

Mrs. Marion's Sunday School Class of the Community United Methodist Church met Monday evening in the home of Ellen Camp. Assisting hostesses were Lucille Bosworth, Margie Carman and Mary Goldschmidt.

Memorial services were held for Ruth Stout followed by remarks by President Phyllis Cline. The 23rd Psalm was repeated in unison followed by the class benediction.

Jane Southward, substituting for Frances Marion gave the devotion, subject of which was "I am a Sick American," this was followed by prayer.

Fifteen members answered the roll call. Guests were Genevieve Denike and Becky Frost.

A card was signed by those present for Eula Parks who is in Mt. Carmel Hospital.

Mary Goldschmidt made a report on the pecan project.

Games were played and prizes were won by Katherine Thomerson and Hazel Yeatts.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

No Man With Class Likes A Pushover!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 28-year-old unmarried woman. I am not a virgin, but have never been promiscuous. I recently became acquainted with a very attractive eligible man, and was thrilled when he asked me out. This man had "class." He was good-looking, charming, well-mannered, intelligent and financially secure.

On our very first date he said, "I don't like to play games. If we like each other, I'll expect you to play house with me, so don't waste a lot of time with that hard-to-get routine."

I told him I thought he was crude. He said he was just being "honest" and I should appreciate being told from the start what he expected.

I told him I thought he was "too honest" for me. Needless to say I never heard from him again.

I think I could have really cared for this man if he hadn't been so blunt. Was I wrong to have sent him on his way?

DEAR HAVE: No. And don't be surprised if you hear from him again. No man with "class" likes a pushover.

DEAR ABBY: Here's my story: I was a young divorcee with three children, ages 4, 6 and 7. I married a widower with two children, then 7 and 8 years old.

Now, seven years later, my husband tells me he has drawn up his will, leaving everything to me and HIS children. When I asked him what would happen to MY children if I were to die first, he replied, "I've done enough for YOUR children already."

Abby, I feel that I have done enough for HIS children already, too. I have also done enough for him because when I married him he had nothing and now he has a big business.

My ex-husband has never contributed anything to the support of my children, and he never will.

This has been bothering me to the point of where I am afraid to travel for fear something will happen to me, and the children will be left unprovided for.

I would sure like help on this matter, but I can't go to any lawyer in this town as my husband is very well-known. I don't want to embarrass him, and I don't want the whole town to know my business.

PLAIN WORRIED
DEAR WORRIED: You need to be advised of your children's rights, if indeed they have any. And if they don't, you'd better find out now. Go to a lawyer and tell him your problem. Lawyers respect confidences, so don't worry about "embarrassing" your husband or being talked about.

DEAR ABBY: I am an 18-year-old girl with a problem. I hope you won't think it's too minor to bother with. I'm fairly good-looking, have lots of friends, and don't have any trouble attracting a guy's attention and getting him to like me. My problem is that as soon as I get a guy to really like me, I don't want him anymore. By that time he's already asked me to go steady, and I've said okay because I just hate to hurt his feelings. But I end up hurting his feelings anyway because I have to break up with him.

If I do go after a guy and don't get him, it just kills me to see him with another girl, even though I know if I did get him I'd end up hating him, too.

What is the matter with me?

NEVER SATISFIED
DEAR NEVER: Face it. You enjoy the chase more than the prize. Some people never outgrow it, but I hope you do, because there is little happiness for those who want only the unattainable.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THE FRUSTRATED WIFE OF MR. FIVE BY FIVE": From your letter, I would say that you have done everything a loving wife can possibly do. And don't worry about his ruining the furniture. You'll be able to buy new furniture from the money you'll collect from his life insurance.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Carol Burnett Show" on CBS appears to be even more popular as an early evening comedy-variety program than it was in a late spot. It has a lot of good things going for it.

First, of course, there is Miss Burnett, a first rate clown who can sing and even dance a little. On Wednesday night she was most effective mooning around as a soap opera heroine, then she turned around and did a dandy imitation of Buster Keaton, followed by one of Katharine Hepburn.

She is backed by a talented company of regulars. Harvey Korman returned with one of the best imitations of Oliver Hardy yet, but the less said about Steve Lawrence's Stan Laurel and Humphrey Bogart the better.

The program usual has pretty good sketches but it excels in using its guest stars. Carol Channing was at her best in a musical memoir of the flapper era and very funny as a long-winded Oscar winner.

Public broadcasting's "Great American Dream Machine" had its season premiere on the nation's educational stations. The program was almost 15 minutes short of its usual hour due to an executive decision to postpone the broadcast of a controversial segment described on the air as "an investigative report on the FBI." PBS network officials decided the portion required revision and further documentation. It was announced on the program that the feature would be shown on PBS Friday night.

The "American Dream Machine" itself continues to be a haphazard mixture of comedy and serious subjects, of opinion, of crazy and sane ideas. As a whole, it is unique, imaginative, refreshing and altogether welcome.

Marshall Efron, the program's first banana, opened the show with a sardonic lecture on display of the American flag. He pointed out that many uses, including decals on car windows and jeweled pins on the lapel, may be patriotic but are likely to be illegal under 20-year-old legislation.

Slow motion film showed a motorcycle daredevil, Evel Knievel, taking some bone-shattering spills. These were accompanied by a song, which suggested it was a great joke—but he was badly hurt and unconscious, so the sequence was not funny at all. Later a serious feature told of the dangerous work of a crop-duster. Use of dusting insecticides was emphasized only in relation to the man's job.

Autumn Weather Favors Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Crisp, cool autumn weather favored much of the nation today as temperatures dipped into the 30s overnight in part of Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Clouds were extremely rare. But where they did appear—over western New England, the lower Great Lakes, Georgia and Florida—they sprinkled a little rain.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 33 at Hibbing, Minn., to 83 at San Diego, Calif.

Suspension Decision Set In Athens Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state Personnel Board will issue a decision in about 10 days on an appeal by an Athens Mental Health Center employee suspended as the result of charges leveled by a female co-worker.

Board Chairman Earl Allison said a backlog of cases could delay the written decision, but added that it definitely will be issued before Benjamin Fortney is given a hearing on a second suspension.

Fortney, a psychiatric aide at the center, was suspended originally for 15 days following an incident July 10 in which he allegedly gave liquor to a female aide.

At a board hearing Wednesday on Fortney's appeal of the suspension, the aide, Wilma Morris, testified that Fortney called her to a kitchen area and gave her three drinks.

The next thing she remembered, she said, was being carried from the room, with her clothes in disarray and bruises on her body.

Fortney, who heads the State Employees Union local at the center, denied the charge. He said he found her on the floor of the kitchen area and he and another employee carried her to a vacant ward.

After hearing the testimony, Allison turned down a motion

Companies with good records and favorable prospects are also discussed in this section. Special company reviews including earnings and price objectives are provided for these selected companies.

by Fortney's attorney to dismiss the suspension order, and the board took the case under advisement.

Allison said Fortney was given a 30-day suspension after he served the original suspension and returned to work.

Fortney also appealed the second suspension and obtained an Athens County Common Pleas Court order restraining the center from enforcing the suspension until the Personnel Board hears his appeal. That hearing is scheduled for Nov. 8.

Phosphates Pose Big Wash - Day Dilemma

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Nixon administration's decision that it's all right after all, to use phosphates in laundry detergents leaves the housewife in the middle—caught between concern for the environment and protecting her family's health.

"What are you supposed to do?" asked a young Los Angeles mother.

"They've been telling us phosphates are bad for the environment and I don't want to contribute to water pollution. But my family's health comes first."

Her dilemma stems from advice issued Sept. 15 in Washington by William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, and Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld. They said the housewife should return to use of water-polluting phosphate detergents because some substitutes might harm health.

The main phosphate substitute is sodium carbonate, a caustic substance. Rub some detergent containing it on a wet arm or hand and it might cause a burn. Rub it in the eyes and it could cause serious damage. If swallowed, it can bring death.

A 15-month old girl died Aug. 15 in Putnam, Conn., when she ate a handful of nonphosphate detergent, according to Arthur F. Blank, director of the Poison Control Center in Hartford, Conn.

Phosphate detergents, however, are considered nontoxic.

And phosphate eliminates mineral impurities or "hardness" in water so that soap can do a better cleaning job.

But the phosphates end up in lakes and rivers from sewage plant effluent and can spur excessive growth of tiny green plants called algae that rob other aquatic life of oxygen. The process, eutrophication, can turn a lake into a stagnant pool of green slime.

"I don't blame the housewife for being confused. This is a sophisticated problem and there's no simple answer for every housewife," Charles Elkins, special assistant to Ruckelshaus, said in a telephone interview.

Elkins said the first consideration should be safety of the family, especially if small children are present.

"But we're not reversing ourselves. What we're saying to the housewife is you've got to assess your individual situation. You've got to see phosphate in your sewage is contributing to eutrophication. If it is, use a substitute, unless you have small children. Then you might want to use a phosphate."

But, he stressed, using a non-phosphate detergent if there are preschool children about "isn't worth the risk for what one would do for the environment."

Next, the housewife must consider the amount of cleaning power she needs. Phosphates are popular because they do a good job lifting dirt out of heavily soiled clothes.

Nonphosphate detergents' cleaning power can be boosted with "soft" water that has been purified by an ion exchange device homeowners can purchase. But adding a "water conditioner" to wash water isn't advised because it's composed largely of phosphate compounds.

One manufacturer who sells both phosphates and sodium carbonate to detergent makers concluded from tests that the substitute detergents don't clean as well.

But the magazine Consumer Reports said in its October issue that four non-phosphate detergents it tested "did the wash every bit as well as the best-selling high-phosphate detergent."

Estimates are that only 15 per cent of the nation's population lives near water where eutrophication is a serious problem. But all of these areas haven't been pinpointed, so the EPA plans a study to locate them.

Several state and local governments have enacted or have under study tough laws regulating phosphate content in detergents. The administration suggested they reconsider such regulations.

Spokesmen for the nation's three largest detergent manufacturers, Procter & Gamble, Lever Bros. and Colgate-Palmolive, said they plan no changes in their products as a result of the administration announcement.

How do you tell which detergents have phosphates?

Most major manufacturers have begun voluntarily listing phosphate content on each box. Most nonphosphate detergents are advertised as such.

Estimates are that only about one-fourth of the phosphates reaching waterways comes from detergents. The rest comes from agricultural fertilizer runoff, other wastes in sewage, soil erosion and other sources.

Elkins and the detergent manufacturers stressed that the search for a safe, efficient synthetic substitute has high priority.

One synthetic substitute, nitrilotriacetic acid—NTA—was found that did a good job washing clothes. But it was banned last December when tests showed it, too, could endanger health.

Elkins said the housewife who lives along a coast probably isn't contributing to eutrophication by using a phosphate detergent. If she lives on the Great Lakes, she might be. If her sewage treatment plant's effluent is discharged into salt water or a moving stream, eutrophication probably isn't a problem.

Some of the confusion over detergents may be cleared up later this month when the conservation subcommittee of the House of Representatives holds hearing on the subject in Washington.

21 American Battle Deaths Reported

SAIGON (AP) — Twenty-one Americans were killed in combat in Vietnam last week, eight less than the previous week, the U.S. Command reported today.

But the command said the number of U.S. servicemen wounded last week was 117, up 70 from two weeks ago.

South Vietnamese and enemy casualties also increased, the allied commands said.

A U.S. spokesman, Maj. Richard Gardner, said he had no explanation for the rise in American wounded. It was "probably a matter of the reporting system," he said, meaning delays in reports from the field to headquarters.

The South Vietnamese Command reported 305 government troops killed last week and 869 wounded, compared with 263 killed and 615 wounded reported a week earlier.

Allied forces reported they killed 1,739 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong last week, 406 more than in the previous week.

Some of the increase in casualties probably could be attributed to a surge in fighting on the Cambodia-South Vietnam border and to stepped-up Communist shelling attacks just prior to South Vietnam's presidential election last Sunday.

The U.S. Command said 16 Americans died last week from accidents and illness, a rise of 10 deaths over the previous week from nonhostile causes.

How The Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Following is the Ohio weather summary from the National Weather Service:

Cool weather dominated Ohio today and is forecast to continue tonight.

Temperatures ranged from 40 degrees at Toledo to 52 near Chesapeake at dawn today. Highs tonight are expected to dip into the upper 30s and low 40s across the state with the chance of frost in isolated areas.

Light rain fell across Northern Ohio overnight with over a half inch recorded at Cleveland. Skies were partly cloudy elsewhere and forecast to improve.

Highs under mostly sunny skies were forecasts to reach the low 60s in southern Ohio and 50s in the north.

A frontal system heading toward Ohio is expected to warm temperatures to the 60s throughout the state Friday.

FORECASTS

OHIO — Clear tonight except partly cloudy northeast. Lows tonight from the upper 30s to low 40s. Friday fair and not so cool. Highs in the low 60s.

NORTHWEST INLAND, WEST LAKE SHORE, CENTRAL — Clear and cooler tonight. Lows from the upper 30s to mid 40s. Friday fair and not so cool. Highs in the low 60s.

WEST CENTRAL, SOUTHWEST, SOUTHEAST — Clear and cool tonight. Lows from the upper 30s to mid 40s. Friday fair and not so cool. Highs in the mid to upper 60s.

Vinegar Joe's Son Is Honored

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government of Thailand has awarded that country's highest decoration for a foreigner, the Most Noble Order of the Crown of Thailand, Knight of the Grand Cross, First Class, to Lt. Gen. Richard G. Stillwell.

Stillwell, son of the World War II military leader, Gen. Joseph "Vinegar Joe" Stillwell, received the decoration Wednesday from Ambassador Sunthorn Hongladarom.

Stillwell set up joint U.S.-Thai defenses against Communist troops as deputy Army chief of staff for military operations. He also formerly commanded the U.S. Military Assistance Command in Thailand.

Haste Aids Waste

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Employees at the city sewage treatment plant soon will be zipping around on electric golf carts.

The Works Board voted to buy the carts so workers could move around the plant easier. John Sweezy, department director said his men had to use pickup trucks or walk in the past.

Rebozo Land Deal Attacked

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, President Nixon's close friend, received favorable treatment when the federal government bought Florida land from him in 1969, the Long Island newspaper Newsday reports.

The newspaper said Wednesday that Rebozo got a price closer to the appraised value than other sellers got for similar land on one case and in another case received $8,600 more than the appraised value.

Newsday quoted the Army Corps of Engineers official who negotiated the acquisition of property for the Biscayne National Monument, A.E.N. Westcott, as saying that he was led to understand at a meeting of corps officials that Rebozo should be "treated with kid gloves."

"We were supposed to be dealing with someone who was an intimate of people in high places," the newspaper quoted Westcott as saying.

Asked for comment, a spokesman at Rebozo's office on Key Biscayne said the financier was not immediately available, and "we don't know where we can get in touch with him."

Newsday said Rebozo and his associates quickly obtained close-to-appraisal prices on an island plot, while other landowners were being offered lower prices on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

Through an attorney, Rebozo then demanded and received a higher than-appraisal price on a second piece of property, the newspaper report continued.

One official, who the newspaper did not identify, was quoted as saying the speedy handling of Rebozo's claim had been urged because "we didn't want to embarrass an incoming president."

Daybook of America 1771 1871 1971

By CLARK KINNAIRD

No. 115 So-called 'communes' being formed in various rural sections across the country by disillusioned young couples, are far from modern concepts. They had many forerunners in idealistic projects of Europeans who sought in the U.S.A. escape from the realities of European life, or by Americans who had become converts to radical socio-religious concepts, such as "Shakerism."

That was the name given to a sect, United Society of Believers in Christ's Second Coming, an offshoot of the Society of Friends (Quakers) It was implanted in the country in the 1770's by Ann Lee Standen, unhappy wife of a Manchester, England, blacksmith. Its concepts included sexual equality but celibacy, consecrated labor separated from the world, common property. These were somewhat parallel to beliefs held by the Ephrata Community, near Lancaster, Pa., which had two monastic orders, Sisters and Brethren, who operated a variety of enterprises that survived commercially.

The 19 Shaker communities established from New England to Kentucky and Indiana before 1840, were to be followed by experiments in group living by Etienne Cabet's Icarie, in Texas; Robert Owens New Harmony, in Indiana; George Rapp's Economy, in Indiana and Pennsylvania; Joseph Blaumiller's Zoar, in Ohio; Christian Metz's Ebenezer of up state New York, and Amiana in Iowa; John Humphrey Noyes' Oneida Community, in New York. Various phalanxes were formed by converts to socio-religious tenets of the French radical, Francois Fourier; Brook Farm, which attracted Boston self-denominated intelligentsia was one of these.

Other settlements founded on social or economic communalism existent in the 1840-1880 era included Aurora, Oregon; Tautonia, Pa.; Equity, Ohio; Eutopia, Ohio; Modern Times, Long Island; Ruskin Commonwealth, Tenn.; Fairhope, Ala., New Liane, Calif. Hopedale Community, Mass.; Orderville, Utah. Earlier there was one denominated "Women in the Wilderness."

Timely examinations of a variety of the group attempts mentioned above in 19th century America, are given retrospectively in Ideologies and Utopias, by Arthur A. Eldrich, Jr. (published anew by Quadrangle Books, Chicago, in paperback, for easy reading).

Prosper Victor Considerant planned a 'phalanstery' amidst thousands of acres of Texas acquired in 1850's for his fellow believers in the economic theology of Francois Fourier. He was ill named; his colony didn't prosper; it collapsed in the 1860's.

9 out of 10 new Chryslers registered in the last 10 years are still on the road.

1962 Chrysler

That should tell you a lot about the cars we sell.

Every Chrysler Imperial is road-tested at the factory.

If our cars aren't right, we don't want you to have them. For example, every Imperial is put through a road test at the factory that includes over 100 different checks before it reaches you.

This year every Chrysler car offers a new optional electronic ignition system that does away with the points and condenser that can wear out. This helps keep the engine tuned longer. And a tuned engine means cleaner exhaust.

From our lowest-priced Chrysler Royal to our big, luxurious Imperial, Chrysler cars are built to last. The same is true of every Chrysler-engineered car we sell—Valiant, Duster, Cricket, Satellite and Fury.

We think that's the kind of car America wants. That's the kind of car we'd like to show you. Come see us today.

Newport Royal 2-Door Hardtop

You gotta have heart.

The quality of a Chrysler starts deep down in the heart of the car. That's where you've gotta have it. That's where you get it. With such time- and road-proven features as Chrysler's torsion-bar suspension and Torque-Flite automatic transmission. The rigid strength of unibody construction. And a 7-step dip-and-spray anti-rust process. Extra care like that is why so many Chryslers stay in great shape.

Ohio Constitution Changes Protested By John Brown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four proposed changes in provisions of the Ohio Constitution dealing with the Legislature were protested Wednesday by Lt. Gov. John Brown.

Appearing at a public hearing of the legislative study committee of the Ohio Constitutional Revision Commission, Brown objected to recommendations that would:

—Replace the lieutenant governor as president of the Senate with a senator selected by the majority party.

—Repeal a provision requiring legislators' protests to be read into the journal.

—Require annual sessions of the Legislature.

—Permit presiding officers of the Senate and House to reconvene the Legislature in special session.

The recommendations are among a number the committee will present to the commission Oct. 19. It will be up to the Legislature to decide if changes are to be put to the voters.

Brown said the Senate duties are an important part of the lieutenant governor's job.

Concerning the reading of legislators' protests into the state equivalent of the Congressional Record, Brown said there is no other way for lawmakers to voice strong public objections.

He said members of the legislature ought to have the right to voice an opinion "somewhere officially without having to go to the press release."

The 32-member commission was created by the 108th General Assembly to update the state's 120-year-old constitution. As required every 20 years, voters must decide in 1972 whether to call a constitutional convention.

Voters haven't called one since 1912, and legislators are hopeful the public will reject the convention proposal again, since a revision commission has been named. They contend it is easier and less expensive to have a commission recommend changes for the Legislature to put before the electorate.

College Prof Predicts Depression Coming

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — North Texas State University professor predicts America will face a depression worse than the 1929 stock market crash once the 1972 elections are over and the economic props are pulled out.

Dr. George Christy, writing in the school publication, "The North Texan," said that as the panic spreads, stock and bond markets will collapse and unemployment will soar about the 1970's high water mark.

Horoscope Forecast

By Carroll Righter

FRIDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when there is likely to be an electric tension in the atmosphere which nevertheless gives you the chance to get much of value accomplished because it stimulates your own inventive and imaginative ideas. Be ready to make whatever changes are necessary to bring you into modern thinking, methods, projects.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get in touch with the people who can give you the data you need to make your projects more successful. Support allies in their new methods. You are most ingenious and can make a fine impression on others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your sales can double now if you contact the right people. You can do much to add to income in other ways as well. Bring forth those practical ideas you have. An attitude of sureness is necessary, though.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Know what you want of a personal nature and then go after it in your own unique, clever way. Join with others at group meetings and add to your circle of friends. Listen to excellent new ideas.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You need some time alone to work out a plan for the future that will be most successful. Get the backing you need from bigwigs. Forget the limelight and enjoy good friends tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get in touch early with congenial and plan some time for recreation that all of you enjoy. Later show bigwigs you appreciate their favors of the past. Don't jeopardize the fine position you now enjoy in any way.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You may have to cut down on social activities you had planned if you are to get the support of bigwigs or officials today. Take part in that civic work that brings you fine results. Show you are a person of ability.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get more information from experts that you need and then put those ideas you have to work. You can express yourself well in novel fields now. Then you make real progress not possible before.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have excellent hunches so be sure to use them. Making new arrangements for settling some problems with others is wise. Get out for some golf or other sport that pleases you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Know what your true position is with associates where joint projects are concerned. Have more harmonious relations with people who work by your side. Save some time for good friends in p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have many duties ahead of you and can get them done to your benefit by working all those angles for which you are well noted. Find the best way to get cooperation of a valued co-worker. Take that chip off your shoulder.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) After a good day's work you can get out for ideal kind of recreation in p.m. Take your mate along and show you are indeed devoted. Make life much happier for both. Don't be extravagant, though.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Doing whatever will bring more harmony at home is wise in a.m., then you find kin willingly go along with your ideas, though balky at first. Put that new project to work. This will do the trick nicely.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those charming young people who will have many fine ideas of an inventive nature and can make a fortune during the lifetime, provided you encourage to put ideas to work early in a practical fashion. Send to the right schools that will give the help required by this child. There is fine ability at selling, so give plenty of leeway to express self. Much care in diet is necessary.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Ashville Kiwanis Club Hosts Division 10-S Council Meet

The Kiwanis Club of Ashville was host Tuesday evening for the Division 10-S council meeting.

The 12 clubs in the division were represented by 83 members and guests.

Ashville club president Rodger Southward presided at a short Ashville club meeting. Southward appointed Don Forquer, Bill Huston and Guy Leatherwood to head the Key Club Committee. Russell Toole, second vice president, and Bill Huston were appointed as co-chairmen of the annual newspaper sale.

Southward then turned the meeting over to Division 10-S Lieutenant Governor Howard Hosler, also a member of the Ashville Club.

Among those in attendance were Evan Williams, past Ohio district governor; Charles Hart, Robert Rosecrans and Rod Blakes, all past Lt. Governor's; and Oren Spilker, secretary-treasurer.

RICHARD POND

Engineer Added To GE Staff

The addition of Richard C. Pond to the engineering staff of Circleville's General Electric plant was announced by plant manager E. G. Grigg.

He will hold the duties of quality control engineer in the Specialty Fluorescent department.

Pond is a native of Wadsworth. He joined the GE Company in 1969 at the Cleveland Lamp Plant.

A graduate of Ohio Northern University, Pond received a bachelor of science in electrical engineering.

Pond is single and resides in the Grove City area.

Nicholas Drive Sets Open House

The Nicholas Drive School Open House will be held at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

There will be a short business meeting followed by introduction of the teachers and committee members. This will be followed by room visitation with teachers discussing their programs. Ample time will be provided to visit more than one room. During this period there will be no entertainment for the children.

At the close of the program children may accompany their parents to their rooms to view the work the child will have on display.

Proof Of Age Needed To Collect SS

People who may soon be eligible for social security benefits can make the claim process easier by getting their birth certificates, or other proofs of age, in advance, according to Harry B. Bieber, social security district manager in Chillicothe.

Proof of age is a key factor in processing claims for social security benefits. Birth dates and relationships also must be established for dependents entitled to benefits. "A birth or baptismal certificate recorded before your fifth birthday is the most adequate proof of age," Mr. Bieber said. "If either document is registered in a distant State, or foreign country, it's advisable to send for a copy well ahead of when you'll need it."

Any social security office will help to develop proof of age. If a certificate was filed at birth the people at any social security office can advise how and where to apply for a copy. If a birth or baptismal certificate is used as proof of age for social security, the document must be either the original or a copy certified by the records custodian. If either a birth or a baptismal certificate cannot be obtained, proof of age may be developed from family Bibles, marriage records, school records, Federal census records, or other documents.

People who are otherwise eligible for social security retirement benefits need proof that they're 65 to collect full benefits — or that they're 62 or older to collect reduced benefits. It is also necessary to establish whether a person is age 65 to be eligible for Medicare which is part of the social security program.

Children need proof of birth date and relationship to the worker involved, if they are eligible for benefits. Eligible children may collect monthly social security benefits until age 18 — or until 22 if they remain full-time students, and unmarried.

Your social security office is located at 606 Central Center, Chillicothe, telephone 775-4950. Hours are 8:45 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday, holidays excepted.

GE Names Accountant

VERNE MANROSS

E. G. Grigg, local General Electric plant manager, has announced the appointment of Verne Manross, who recently joined Circleville Lamp, to the Company's Financial Management Program. He will report to Bill Fischer, plant accountant.

Manross is a graduate of Case Western Reserve University, located in Cleveland, where he earned BBA and MBA Degrees in Business Administration.

Manross and his wife Sue reside in the Circleville area.

Nixon . . .

The plan will not carry a termination date, although the administration says it wants to return to a "free economy" as soon as possible.

The reasons for this are mainly strategic. Announcing a termination date beforehand would merely postpone wage-price decisions, administration spokesmen say, and lead to an explosion of inflation on the termination date.

Although the White House indicated the President's address will cover mainly the domestic economy, Nixon could announce his plans for ending the nation's balance-of-payment deficit.

He announced on Aug. 15 the dollar was being cut loose from its tie with gold and imposed a 10 per cent surcharge on imports.

CHILDREN'S CHOIR — The renowned Ehrenfelder Children's Choir of Cologne, Germany, will be presented in concert at the First United Methodist Church in Mt. Sterling 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Ehrenfelder Children's Choir To Perform In Mt. Sterling

The First United Methodist Church of Mt. Sterling will present the Ehrenfelder Children's Choir of Cologne, Germany, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the church.

The choir of 57 girls and boys, ranging in age from 9 to 21, under the direction of Elfriede Ehlers, will present music depicting the Four Seasons of the year and will include sacred, secular and German folk music.

This outstanding choir has gained prominence through their concerts held throughout Germany, Switzerland, Scandinavia and Great Britain. They are presently on their first overseas tour.

Before appearing in Mt. Sterling, the choir will have performed in Chicago, Valparaiso, Ind. (Valparaiso University), Springfield, Ill., St. Louis (including a recording session for "The Lutheran Hour"), Marion, Ill., and Pataskala, O. Following the Mt. Sterling concert, the choir will travel to Baltimore, Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, and New York City, returning to Cologne on the evening of October 20.

No charge will be made for the concert. However, a free-will offering will be received to help defray the choir's expenses.

Bar Witness Identification Of Henderson

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — A helicopter gunner who was among the first to raise a public protest over the slaughter of civilians by U.S. troops at My Lai will be barred from making a courtroom identification of Col. Oran K. Henderson as an officer to whom he complained.

The ruling Wednesday by the judge, Col. Peter S. Wondolowski, dealt a serious blow to a charge that Henderson committed perjury before Pentagon investigators.

The former brigade commander is being tried on two charges of lying under oath and charges of improper investigation and failure to report allegations of war crimes at My Lai.

Wondolowski ruled that the identification of Henderson by Lawrence M. Colburn was "tainted by improper and suggestive showing of Col. Henderson's identified photograph" at earlier official proceedings.

Colburn, now a student and part-time house painter at Mount Vernon, Wash., testified in the absence of the jury on Sept. 20 that he is sure the man he talked to in Vietnam was Henderson.

But Henderson's lawyers said Colburn could not identify the defendant until he was shown pictures of the colonel and when he saw Henderson alone a year ago at a deposition hearing, Henderson's civilian attorney, Henry B. Rothblatt complained of "suggesting, twisting and turning the testimony of the witness."

Colburn, however, will be called to testify on matters other than the identification.

the hard core prison element. He added:

"We would be putting these people in the open markets to compete for jobs with non-lawbreakers." He called the bill "discriminatory."

Sponsor Rep. Richard Christiansen, D-17 Mansfield, observed the measure had not been aimed at hard core elements. Rather, it is intended "to reach the soft core before they become hardened," he said.

"Furthermore, what's the alternative?" Christiansen asked rhetorically. "Keep them locked up until the day they finish their sentences; then dump them on the public?"

Rep. Joseph P. Tulley, R-37 Mentor, a co-sponsor, pleaded:

"Give us the chance to get into the streets a guy with a trade so he doesn't return to a life of crime."

The bill empowers the state's Adult Parole Authority to extend furloughs to "trustworthy" prisoners for the "purpose of employment, vocational training, educational . . . or other programs . . ." outside the institution. Backers have hailed the measure as an enlightened approach to rehabilitation.

The measure moves now to the Senate for consideration. It was one of five bills passed by the lower chamber during its session. The House meets again this afternoon.

The Senate approved the two minor bills on its legislative calendar, then recessed from further floor activity until Tuesday.

Army Helicopters Fly Missions To Aid Civilians

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — Minutes after the State Patrol called, an Army helicopter was airborne to aid two persons critically injured in an auto accident.

Oust Juror In Crofters Loan Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Defense attorneys exercised one of their 20 preemptory challenges Wednesday and excused one of nine men tentatively seated to hear the trial of four men on charges stemming from last year's state loan scandal.

Using the preemptory challenges — five for each of the defendants — attorneys may have a prospective juror removed without giving a reason. The process moved slowly Wednesday as jurors were questioned on an individual basis.

Gerald Donahue, Sidney Griffith and Harry Groban, all officers of Crofters, Inc., are on trial on 19 charges of bribery. James Lore, former officer of the School Employees Retirement System, is charged with seeking or accepting bribes.

Crofters is a money-finding agency that steered businessmen to the state treasurer's office and to the retirement system for millions of dollars in loans.

It later was disclosed that the treasurer's office had permitted some $12 million more in commercial paper investments than state law allowed.

Tampa Water Supply Slowed

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Household spigots slowed to a trickle and air conditioners were knocked out Wednesday when Tampa's overtaxed treatment plant failed to deliver enough water to the city's 250,000 residents.

The trouble was precipitated by the current hot, dry weather and last month's heavy rainfall which washed an unusually large amount of impurities into the Hillsborough River, source of the city water supply.

Hilton Roberts, operations chief for the municipal water plant, said the raw river water could not be turned into drinkable water fast enough, causing water pressure to drop drastically.

Navajos Live On Big Reservation
WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The elevation on the Navajo Reservation in Arizona, New Mexico and Utah ranges from 4,500 feet to 10,416 feet.

The reservation consists of nearly 16 million acres of land, or about 25,000 square miles, an area almost the size of Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts combined.

The reservation comprises 1,503,693 acres of wildlands, such as canyons and mesas.

An estimated 135,000 Navajos reside on or near the reservation.

at nearby McChord Air Force Base guided the copter to the scene.
"A man and woman were near death," said CWO Lindsay Gow, 23-year-old pilot of the copter. "After putting them aboard I pushed the craft to full throttle — about 140 miles an hour — and made it to St. Joseph Hospital in Tacoma in seven minutes."

The woman was revived three times during the flight by medic Spec. 5 Manuel Garcia, arrived alive at the hospital but died the next morning. A state trooper accompanying the crew used cardiac massage to sustain the life of the man who survived.

The flight was one of the more than 80 similar missions flown from Ft. Lewis in the past year under the Military Assistance to Safety and Traffic (MAST) program.

The Department of Transportation recently announced the demonstration project — designed to augment civilian capability to respond to medical emergencies — will be continued at six posts in the country.

"We're usually dealing with life and death cases," said Gow. "We're not just in the business of transporting free. We pride ourselves in getting the victims to the hospital alive."

Five rotating crews from the Third Armored Cavalry are on ready status 24 hours a day. The helicopters are equipped with radio gear, oxygen, respirator, suction pumps, intravenous fluid apparatus, blankets and bandages. Mechanical hoists enable crewmen to pick up the injured while the craft is hovering.

"Working with MAST is the most worthwhile job on the post," said Spec. 5 Lloyd Bostwick, 23, of Detroit. "Our biggest reward is getting a letter from the people we've helped or calling the hospital the day after a rescue and hearing the victim will be OK."

Calls come from the State Patrol, sheriffs, the Coast Guard, park rangers and hospitals.

Injured or seriously ill persons can be flown to one of 12 hospitals in the program's 100 mile radius of Ft. Lewis.

"We're also called on for some freeway accidents," said Gow. "Some places it's a long way to the nearest hospital and furthermore we can clear off the roadway quickly. Our copter can lift cars if it has to."

The extension of the demonstration phase is to allow time to determine the feasibility of the military's efforts and to learn how military assistance can complement civilian efforts.

"We're not trying to take anyone's business," Gow said. "We're just trying to save a life."

Ed Khayat Takes Over Eagles Reins

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Millionaire Leonard Tose wants to win "very badly" so he fired Jerry Williams as head coach of his winless Philadelphia Eagles and gave the job to Ed Khayat.

"Eddie said he could produce a winner," Tose told a news conference Wednesday. "It's that simple. If we had played respectable, competitive football, if we had given our fans a hope that we could win, we wouldn't be here with a new coach."

What galled Tose were successive humiliating, lopsided National Football League defeats by Cincinnati (34-14), Dallas (42-7), and San Francisco (31-3).

The decision angered Williams, dismayed the players, surprised Khayat. Yet it had been reported in the works ever since last year's disastrous season.

Williams said the firing came at a time when the players and the coaching staff "were looking forward to upsetting the Minnesota Vikings" Sunday.

"Unfortunately, I was working for a man who is without courage and character," Williams said. "I was offered a sizable sum of money to resign, but to accept a bribe of that nature is to lower myself to his depths."

Responding Tose said, "I don't know what he means. I like to think I am a compassionate man. I directed General Manager Pete Retzlaff to offer as much as an additional year's salary if he would resign for the good of the team."

Bruce Kison Proves Hero Of Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "You're not 21—you're at least 43," Steve Blass told Bruce Kison.

The rookie reliever pitched a cool 4 2-3 innings of relief Tuesday to pick up the Pittsburgh Pirates' pennant-clinching victory.

Peacefully smoking a huge cigar he stole from Blass' locker while his teammates drenched each other in champagne, Kison talked about his confidence following the triumph.

"Things have gone well for me—I've no reason to be negative," said the 6-foot-4, 170-pounder. "If you go out on the mound scared, you better get out of the game."

"Sure I feel super," he said about his performance, which began after Blass was drubbed for all five Giants runs in the first two innings and Kison came in. "How else am I supposed to feel?"

Kison joined the Pirates on July 3 from Charleston, where he was 10-1, when Bob Moose went into military duty for two weeks.

"Last year I had a bad temper, yelled at umpires and got mad at myself," Kison explained. "It hurt me more than anybody else."

But Kison has his temper under wraps now.

Labor Party Urges Cuts In Armies

BRIGHTON, England (AP) — Britain's opposition Labor Party within a year toward substantial cuts in the military programs of both the North Atlantic alliance and the Warsaw Pact nations of Eastern Europe.

A policy statement from the Labor leadership also pressed Britain's Conservative government to speed up preparations for a European security conference on balanced force reductions between East and West.

The statement was circulated to the party's rank and file for a foreign policy debate today at Labor's annual convention.

It was virtually certain of approval. "The objective must be substantial cuts in the defense programs of both NATO and the Warsaw Pact," the statement said. "The first step in such a process should be taken in the next 12 months."

The timetable was a new element in the official stand of Britain's two major political parties on the Soviet-proposed security conference and the related question of mutual troops reductions. Earlier, both parties had stressed the need for long, careful preparation.

But the Labor policy statement said the recently concluded four-power agreement on Berlin now clears the way "for further success in the broader field."

Colts Retain Spots In NFL Team Statistics

NEW YORK (AP) — Only the Baltimore Colts managed to retain their top spot among national Football League team leaders, according to statistics released today by the league.

The Colts continued to provide the stingiest defense in the American Conference, giving up 536 yards to the 701 allowed by runner-up Denver.

The Broncos were best against the pass by permitting just 276 yards, 10 less than the Colts, while the Kansas City Chiefs, fifth overall on defense, provided the best wall against the rush, giving up just 188 yards to the 242 allowed by Pittsburgh.

Washington slipped to second place in NFC defense behind Minnesota, which gave up 600 total yards to the Redskins' 678.

And the Vikes stood up best against the pass by allowing 308 yards, 98 less than No. 2 St. Louis. Detroit, a distant ninth overall, nevertheless remained best against a ground assault as the Lions permitted just 235 yards to the 267 given up by the Redskins.

On offense, San Francisco's 1201 total yards gave them first place over Atlanta's 1045 in the NFC as last week's leader, Dallas, fell to third.

Green Bay was best on the ground with 594 yards as the 49ers and Los Angeles tied for second with 562 apiece while Atlanta was the easy aerial leader with 747 to San Francisco's 639.

In the AFC, San Diego leads in total offense with 1009 yards, a skimpy two above Oakland. Kansas City is the rushing leader with 586 yards to Pittsburgh's 579 and the Chargers also own the air with 665 yards passing to runnerup Cincinnati's 609.

'Must' Game For Browns Set Sunday

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The first of two games Cleveland Browns quarterback Bill Nelsen says "we have to win" crops up Sunday at Municipal Stadium when the Pittsburgh Steelers invade.

The Steelers and Browns are currently tied for first place in the American Football Conference's Central Division with 2-1 records.

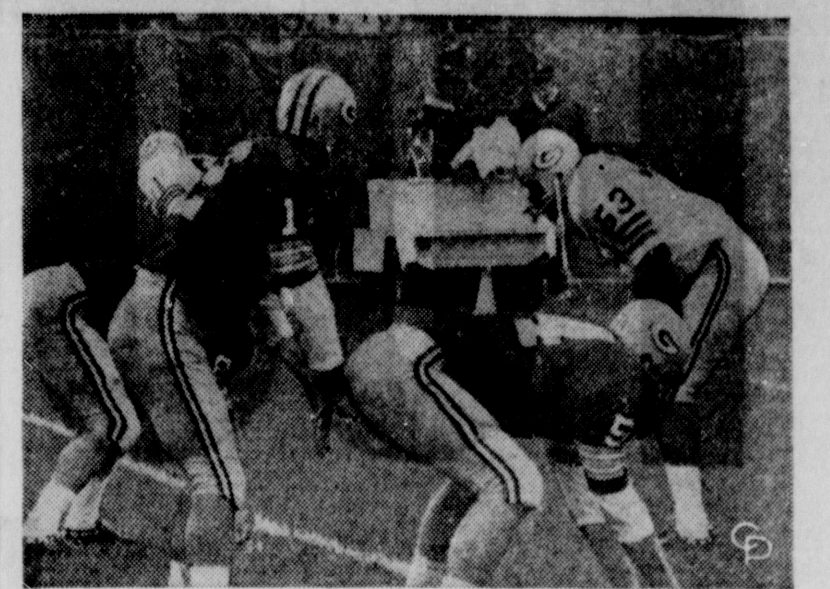

The second game Nelsen refers to is the following Sunday at Cincinnati against the Bengals, 1-2, who won the division last year.

Sunday's game with the Steelers will be before another standing-room-only crowd of over 80,000, the ninth straight time it has been a sellout in Cleveland.

The Steelers have announced that the Browns' visit there Nov. 7 is sold out.

"We're a better ball club than we were last year," said

Nelsen Wednesday. "We'll prove it in the future. Also, I'm more prepared with audibles. I feel we can win any time against anyone. I believe in the offensive line. It protects the defenses it's facing. I me."

Official Coal Strike Demanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dissident faction of the United Mine Workers Union called Wednesday for an official declaration of a coal miners' strike so UMW members could collect strike benefits.

In a letter to UMW President W. A. "Tony" Boyle, Miners for Democracy Chairman Mike Trbovich asked "is it too much to ask" that Boyle officially call a strike and "release some of the $70 million of our dues money now sitting in our bank and give it to the working men in the form of strike benefits."

Although the UMW's executive board has given Boyle the authority to declare a strike, he has not done so, and a union spokesman indicated that it's not likely that he will.

Meet The Tigers

Dennis Huston (53) and Stuart Moore (55) are junior members of the Circleville High School football team. Huston is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Huston, Route 3, and Moore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmos A. Moore, 1633 Georgia Road.

CHS Gains Fifth Spot In OHSAA Region Ratings

Circleville's Tigers hold down fifth spot in Region 8 in the Ohio High School Athletic Association first Class AA gridiron ratings.

The state has been divided into four regions with the Tigers in the southwestern section. This region is bordered by and includes the counties of Mercer, Shelby, Logan, Union, Madison, Pickaway, Ross, Pike and Scioto.

Amanda Clearcreek holds down ninth spot in the Region 11 Class A ratings.

The computer ranks the teams using a system based on team records and school sizes. It also takes into consideration the current and past records of opponents of each team and the records of teams the opponents have played.

The four regions of each class are composed of contiguous counties, but drawn so each contains a relatively equal number of high schools.

An association spokesman said this explains why a region in east and southeast Ohio is much larger geographically than one in the heavily populated Cleveland area.

The top in each region this week are:

Pirates Win NL Crown; Face Baltimore

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dock Ellis stops talking Saturday and tries the other thing that keeps his name in the headlines—pitching.

The 26-year-old Ellis is Manager Danny Murtaugh's choice as the starting pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates in the first game of the World Series against American League champion Baltimore Saturday.

"Ellis will pitch the first game of the Series if he's physically able," Murtaugh announced before the champagne had stopped flowing in the Pittsburgh dressing room after the Pirates had smashed the San Francisco Giants 9-5 Wednesday to win their first National League pennant since 1960.

Pittsburgh won the best-of-five playoff in four games with the help of super relief pitching by babyface Bruce Kison and dour Dave Giusti, and three-run homers off the bats of Rich Hebner and Al Oliver.

The only doubt in Murtaugh's mind about Ellis starting Saturday against one of Baltimore's four 20-game winners—probably Dave McNally—was the condition of the young right-hander's tender elbow.

Ellis has had trouble with the elbow all season, and it stiffened again after he went five innings Sunday in the second game of the playoffs at San Francisco.

"It's not tight today," Ellis said. And he wasn't surprised that he had the choice opening assignment.

"Danny told me in San Francisco last weekend 'you got the ball Saturday if you can make it,'" Ellis disclosed. "I'll make it. I've dreamed of being in the World Series ever since I was a little boy."

Ellis keeps the Pirates' management hopping.

This week he described the front office as cheapskates because he had to pay $50 out of his pocket to get a larger bed in a San Francisco hotel.

Murtaugh was asked to describe the character of his championship club.

"Every club has a definite character of its own and our strength is hitting and a strong bench," Murtaugh replied.

San Francisco ripped starter Steve Blass for five runs in the first two innings, but had nothing to show for it but a 5-5 tie.

After Roberto Clemente singled home two runs in the first, Hebner smashed a three-run homer in the second off Giants' starter Gaylord Perry. At the start of the third, Murtaugh brought in the 21-year-old Kison to relieve Blass.

Kison, who last year pitched the Eastern League championship clincher at Waterbury, Conn., pitched 4 2-3 innings of shutout ball, allowing two hits.

"Earlier in the year he did a fine job against San Francisco and I wanted someone in there who could give me four or five shutout innings. He did that," Murtaugh said.

The tie lasted until the sixth when Clemente singled in his third run of the game to give the Pirates a 6-5 lead. The Giants then intentionally walked Willie Stargell, who was 0-for-14, to get to Al Oliver.

"I got a lot of pride and confidence," said Oliver, after he had slammed a 2-1 pitch from reliever Jerry Johnson over the right field wall for three game-winning runs.

The Giants had walked Stargell intentionally in the fourth and Oliver popped out.

"I said to myself 'don't get anxious like you did against Perry the first time swinging at a high ball. Wait on the pitch you can handle and really air it out.'"

Giusti relieved with two outs in the seventh, fanned Dick Dietz and then retired the Giants in the final two innings.

"I threw the ball where I wanted it," said Giusti, who got three saves in the four game series.

Artis Gilmore Rising Star In ABA Future

By BERT ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Sports Writer

Artis Gilmore, the 7-foot-2 rookie of the Kentucky Colonels of the American Basketball Association, had just scored 16 points, grabbed 16 rebounds and blocked seven shots in an exhibition against Baltimore of the National Basketball Association when Bullets' Coach Gene Shue exclaimed:

"He's awesome. He's fantastic."

Bullets' center Wes Unseld, who had played against Gilmore, said, "I don't see anything to hold him back." And Baltimore guard Kevin Loughery called Gilmore "one of the five best players in pro basketball right now."

Jim McDaniels of the Carolina Cougars played two preseason games against Baltimore and totaled 39 points and 27 rebounds prompting Bullets' forward Jack Marin to call him "amazing." Marin added: "he's going to be an exceptionally fine basketball player."

The two seven-foot All-Americans of the 1970-71 collegiate season—Gilmore, with Jacksonville, and McDaniels, with Western Kentucky—are among a covey of outstanding rookies who will begin regular-season play in the ABA on Oct. 13.

Others include Julius Erving from Massachusetts and Willie Sojourner from Weber State both with Virginia; Darnell Hillman from San Jose State and George McGinnis from Indiana University both with the Indiana Pacers; Joty Neumann, signed by Memphis after he led the nation's collegiate scorers as a sophomore at Mississippi, and John Roche from South Carolina, with the New York Nets.

The addition of Gilmore has helped establish the Colonels as favorites to win the regular-season title in the Eastern Division.

sion. They finished behind Virginia last season but eliminated the Squires in the playoffs.

With Gilmore at center, Joe Mullaney, Kentucky's new coach, has switched last season's ABA scoring champion, Dan Issel, from the pivot to his natural position of forward.

The Colonels also are well fortified with veterans, including Lou Dampier, Darel Carrier, Jim Ligon, Cincy Powell, Walt Simon and Les Hunter.

Carolina, with McDaniels, also has a new coach in Tom Meschery. However, the Cougars' supporting cast is not as strong as Kentucky, especially with Joe Caldwell still hurting after tearing cartilage in his right knee at the end of last season.

Virginia also has physical problems, with guard Mike Barrett out for the season with a broken wrist bone and forward Doug Moe an uncertain starter for the season opener because of an injured left knee. But with Erving and Sojourner plus Charlie Scott, a 27-point scorer in his rookie year last season, the Squires should not lack for scoring power.

Indiana, defending regular season Western Division champion but eliminated in the playoffs by league champion Utah, appears even stronger this season with Hillman and McGinnis. The pacers already had a tremendous front line in center Mel Daniels, the league's rebound leader and Most Valuable Player, and Roger Brown and Bob Netolicky.

Utah, the surprise champion last season, has its starting lineup back with Zelfo Beatty at center, Glen Combs and Merv Jackson at guards, and Red Robbins and Willie Wise at forwards. But the Stars have a new coach in LaDell Andersen and a valuable new reserve, Jimmy Jones, picked up from Memphis.

Neumann, who signed for a reported $2.0 million with Memphis after averaging more than 40 points a game in his only varsity season at Mississippi, is the key to the Pros' success this season, particularly with the departure of Steve Jones, a 23.6 scorer, and Jimmy Jones a 19.5 scorer.

Roche, a standout at South Carolina, might have a difficult time breaking into the Nets' starting backcourt, which has veterans Bill Melchionni and Joe DePre. The Nets also have forward Rick Barry, the league's second top scorer last season.

Pittsburgh has two standout forwards in All-Star John Brisker and George Caer, obtained from Virginia, while the Floridians are relying on a high-scoring backcourt duo of Mack Calvin and Larry Jones who combined for 51.5 points a game last season.

Dallas and Denver both have new coaches and strong guards. Tom Nissalke is the Chaps' coach and Steve Jones and Donnie Freeman their backcourt combination. Alex Hanum, who coached the San Deigo Rockets of the NBA last season, now heads the Rockets at Denver. His top players include guards Larry Cannon and Ralph Simpson.

Neinas Is Chosen

Big 8 Commissioner

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Big Eight Conference dipped into the staff of the National Collegiate Athletic Association for the second time in a decade Wednesday and tapped Charles M. "Chuck" Neinas as its new commissioner.

Neinas, 39, succeeds Wayne Duke, who was with the NCAA headquarters here when he became commissioner in 1963. Duke resigned early in August to join the Big Ten Conference in a similar position.

North Dakota State Takes Top Spot In Grid Ratings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rampaging North Dakota State, on the heels of a 62-0 destruction of Morningside, Iowa, College, took over the top spot today in the weekly Associated Press college Division football poll.

The Bison who were second last week, exchanged places with previously No. 1 Arkansas State, which was idle last week-end.

North Dakota State received six first-place votes and 289 points while Arkansas State had seven firsts and 275 points from the nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters who make the selections.

Grambling maintained its No. 3 position after crushing Prairie View 30-7. Delaware was fourth, up from sixth, followed by Western Kentucky, Eastern Michigan and Eastern Kentucky.

Montana stumbled from fifth to eighth following a 21-12 upset loss to Idaho. The setback made Montana the only team in the Top Ten with a defeat this season.

Two teams unranked last week, Akron and McNeese State, broke into the ranking, gaining ninth and 10th places, respectively.

Teams, with first place votes in parentheses and points, the ratings based on a 20-18-16-14-12-9-8-7, etc. ratio:

1. N.D. State (6) 289
2. Ark. St. (7) 275
3. Grambling 230
4. Delaware (2) 218
5. W. Ky. (1) 199
6. E. Michigan 179
7. E. Ky. 124
8. Montana (1) 109
9. Akron 93
10. McNeese State 51

Lisbon Fire Death Error Probed

LISBON, Ohio (AP) — Columbiana County Coroner Dr. William Koloszi says he doubts whether firemen could have saved the life of Mrs. Betty Laughlin even if they had known she was trapped inside her apartment by a $200,000 fire that destroyed a discount store below her room.

Mrs. Laughlin's body was found early Wednesday morning at the top of the stairs outside her apartment, which is above the Mart discount store that was destroyed by fire the night before.

She was an invalid and was still in her wheelchair when firemen found her, Dr. Koloszi ruled that she died from asphyxiation.

He said that in the dense smoke Mrs. Laughlin, 65, could not have lived more than eight minutes and he questioned whether firemen could have found her and gotten her out in time, particularly since she was found at the top of the stairs and the rescue attempt would have been made from the apartment window.

W. A. "Slim" Peters, chief of Lisbon's volunteer fire department, said his men were informed that Mrs. Laughlin had been removed from the building. He said one fireman had started a ladder up to Mrs. Laughlin's second-floor window, but that someone on the ground yelled up that she had been rescued, so the fireman turned around.

Peters said that there apparently was confusion over the situation because a woman in an adjacent building had been rescued minutes earlier.

It had been Mrs. Laughlin who called in the fire alarm. Mrs. Mary Wolfgang, a housekeeper at the St. George Catholic Church parsonage three blocks away, said Mrs. Laughlin called and said "...the place is on fire... and there is no one here to help me."

Mrs. Wolfgang said she and the Rev. John Hohman, pastor at St. George, hurried to the fire, and that they were told that "she had been carried out and taken to a neighbor."

Father Hohman said that this is where firemen apparently

Dayton School Chief Tells Of Segregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wayne Carle, superintendent of Dayton, Ohio, schools, told a Senate committee Wednesday that 75 per cent of his students still attend schools that are 90 per cent or more segregated.

Testifying before the Committee on Equal Educational Opportunity, Carle said massive injections of compensatory education for the poorest white and black students have not been effective.

mixed up the two elderly women.

Several times during the early morning hours, firemen fought flames from the top of the stairs just a few feet from where the wheelchair was found, but they said they did not see the body in the dense smoke.

Store manager Mrs. Frank Hanlon, two clerks and a few customers were in the Mart when the fire, triggered by an explosion, started at the rear of the structure.

Three more explosions occurred during the fire, blowing out back windows and spraying glass and merchandise over a 100-foot area in the street behind the store. The store's entire stock—which included ammunition and paint supplies—was destroyed.

One fireman, James Koehler, 28, of Columbiana, suffered a fractured right ankle when an explosion blew him off a ladder.

Reds Call Vote 'Farce'

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam claimed today that the presidential election "farce" in South Vietnam and the recent U.S. bombing of the North illustrate the failure of Vietnamization.

Then Nguyen Minh Vy, deputy chief of the Hanoi delegation to the Paris peace talks, called on the United States to accept the Communists' seven-point peace proposal as "the only logical way out of the war."

Vy spoke with newsmen at the 131st session of the deadlocked talks began.

Neither of the two Communist delegations was headed by chief negotiators. For the second week in a row, Vy was sitting in for Foreign Minister Xuan Thuy, said to be suffering from the flu. Dinh Ba Thi filled in for Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh,

Reward Is Posted In 3 Murder Cases

Juvenile Court Hears Cases

Cases heard Friday in Juvenile Court include:

Robert Conrad, Route 1, Ashville, was fined $10 which the court suspended for operating a motorcycle without eye protection.

Roger L. Bell, 16, Route 5, had a traffic case dismissed by Judge Guy Cline.

Charles Rutter, Circleville, was granted permission to keep his son in his custody. The court ruled the boy did not need to be placed in the custody of the Children's Services.

Seventeen-year-old Gary Williams, 114 1/2 W. Main St., lost his driving privileges for 30 days and had a $10 fine suspended when he was found guilty of speeding 75 in a 60 mile zone.

Mark Lutz, 14, Route 2, was ordered not to apply for a drivers license for six months after he completes driver training. The court found him guilty of driving without a license and fined him $50, $40 of the fine was suspended.

A 17-year-old Circleville boy, charged with being truant from school Sept. 20, was placed on probation for three years.

Four boys, 14, 15 and 16 years of age from the Lockbourne, Commercial Point and Orient areas, admitted to breaking into the Scioto Twp. school in August. All were placed on probation with the juvenile court for three years and ordered to complete 100 hours of community work.

Shoplifting brought a 15-year-old Laurelville girl a 3-year probation term and an order to make restitution. She was arrested with her mother Aug. 13 at the Kroger store.

A girl, 8, from the Williamsport area was charged with the entry of the Ronald Miller
